BILLION DOLLAR TAX BILL STARTS THROUGH HOUSE

Designed to Balance Budget Next Year.

Senate refuses to abolish two federal bureaus by 46 to 20 vote. Senator Glenn declares congress must economize or feel wrath of people. Story on Page 3.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—The billion dollar tax bill, designed to balance the federal government's budget next year, was introduced in the house today by Representative Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.], acting chairman of the ways and means committee, following its unanimous approval by the committee.

REP. CHARLES R. CRISP

The bill, which had been framed by subcommittees during the last month, was referred by Speaker Garner to the ways and means committee which will report it back to the house tomorrow with a recommendation that it be passed. On Wednesday the committee will file a written report explaining and defending the manufacture tax and other new levies, and on Thursday the house will begin a three days' general debate of the measure.

Long Road Ahead.

While the bill may be passed by the house late Saturday the chances are that it will not be sent to the senate until the first of next week. Probably several weeks will be consumed by its passage through the senate. The measure is not likely to become law before May 1, in which event the new excise taxes would become effective May 15 and the manufacture tax June 1.

Although Republican, as well as Democratic members of the committee, without exception, voted to approve the bill, two or three stated that they reserved the right to offer amendments in the house. Among them was Representative Thomas H. Cullen [Dem., N. Y.] who later in the day made public the text of an amendment he will offer to legalize beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content and impose a tax thereon of $5 a barrel, which he estimates would produce a revenue of 200 millions of dollars.

Acting Chairman Crisp expressed confidence that while there will be considerable opposition in the house, particularly to the manufacture tax, the bill will not be materially altered. Inasmuch as the house is still controlled by the dries, who will not listen to suggestions of taxing alcoholic beverages, even those noninterfering in fact, Mr. Crisp did not take this source of revenue into consideration. He said that congress will be compelled to take its choice between a sales tax and excise tax on a multitude of articles, including automobiles, radios, gasoline and bank checks.

Reach Income Tax Limit.

It would be impossible, he said, to obtain from still heavier taxation of the rich the 600 millions the tax on manufactures sales is designed to produce, for the reason that because of losses incident to the depression, the rich no longer possess incomes which would yield in the aggregate any substantial fraction of that amount.

The sales tax, he contended, is preferable to the excise taxes proposed by the treasury which aroused such a storm of disapproval. He was inclined to dispute the argument that the sales tax will be passed on to the consumer. Generally, he opined, it will be absorbed into manufacturers' costs without price advance. He cited, for example, a $25 suit of clothes, the wholesale price of which is $15. At 24 per cent, the tax would be $4 cents, too small, he thought, to be likely to be added to the retail price.

The bill consists of 297 pages and contains nearly 75,000 words. Unusual interest centered in the provisions relating to the sales tax, which is patterned after the Canadian system.

Certain Products Exempted.

Manufacturers with an annual output of $20,000 worth of products or more are to be licensed and on sales of such products except articles specifically exempted the tax is to be imposed unless the sales fall into these categories:

4 DIE, 30 HURT IN JOBLESS RIOT AT FORD PLANT

Police Fight Crowd at Gates.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 7.—[Special.]—Four men were killed and more than thirty wounded, at least six seriously today when a communist-led mob of more than 3,000 jobless men and women fought with police at the gates of the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company.

The mob drove Dearborn police and firemen in retreat before them to a last stand at entrance No. 3 of the factory.

There, led by a woman agitator screaming, "Come on, you cowards!" they were surging as a stream of water played upon them from an overhead bridge, where firemen stood with hose. A small army of police had tried tear gas, and a high wind had wafted it away harmlessly.

Mob Attacks with Rocks.

At the entrance gate the mob let loose with rocks, clubs, and bricks. The tear gas guns were fired by the police, and again the high wind wafted their contents to ineffectiveness in the upper air.

Harry Bennett, chief of the Ford service department, arrived during the fighting and advanced in his car through a barrage of sticks and stones nearly to the gates. He staggered from the machine and attempted to lead the officers against the crowd but policemen pulled him back and took him to a hospital. His injuries are reported serious.

On pressed the battling crowd. Finally, the police fired two rapid volleys from riot guns, mowing down men in the foreground of the mob. A third volley sent the 3,000 men and women back to a stand two hundred yards away and to eventual flight. When state police and more than 150 Detroit policemen arrived, the crowd had vanished.

Officials See Battle.

From an overhead bridge, above the gate Charles Sorenson, general manager of Ford's former Governor Fred W. Green, and Edith Ford watched the fray. Henry Ford was in another section of the two mile long plant.

Bennett, along with five others gravely wounded, was hurried to Henry Ford hospital, where tonight doctors said they feared he had suffered a skull fracture.

To Mary Green, a woman agitator, said to be a Red, police laid the responsibility for the violence. She was arrested and held with thirteen other men and women.

The Green woman's sweetheart and co-worker in labor agitation, Joseph Ford, 23, of Detroit, fell beneath the first volley of gunfire. He died in Delray Industrial hospital.

Two of Dead Identified.

The other dead were Coleman Lenz, 25, of Belleville, Mich.; Joe Debruske, 22, known as "Joe the Newboy," and one man unidentified.

William Collins, 30, manager of the Detroit bureau of a news photo service, was shot in the right hand and head as he attempted to photograph the riot.

Seven policemen and firemen of Dearborn were wounded. Chief among them was Inspector Charles Slamer.

The riot was a result of a meeting sponsored by agitators at Danceland, on Woodward avenue, yesterday afternoon. John Schmitz, communist candidate for mayor, and William T. Foster, national communist leader, addressed the gathering.

ANITA STEWART'S HUSBAND SAVES TWO MEN AT SEA

Santa Monica, Cal., March 7.—[Special.]—Two amateur sailors, clinging to a small sailboat which had been overturned by a squall two miles off at sea, were rescued today by George Converse, husband of Anita Stewart, screen actress.

Miss Stewart saw the craft creaking from her beach home. Her husband raced to the rescue in a motor boat, which he keeps moored near his home.

The rescued pair were Harry T. Honn and M. R. Hills. Honn required medical treatment but tonight was pronounced out of danger.

Girl, 4, Falls Into Tub of Hot Water; Dies

Racine, Wis., March 7.—[Special.]—Patricia Ann Isbell, 4, of 1220 Villa street, died tonight in St. Luke's hospital as the result of burns received earlier in the day when she fell into a tub of hot water at her home. John Isbell, her father, was burned on the hands when he pulled the little girl from the tub.

FRANKENSTEIN'S MONSTER

FRANCE CALLS ON ENTIRE WORLD TO FIGHT DRY LAWS

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

PARIS, March 7.—An appeal to wine drinkers, cultivators and exporters all over the world to unite in energetic opposition to the prohibition movement and other restrictive legislation, such as excessive import taxation and the levying of high import duties, was addressed by Premier Tardieu of France today to the delegates from thirty nations assembled at the French ministry of foreign affairs for the opening of the international wine congress.

The wine growing industry faces a crisis, Tardieu said. The economic depression, involving overproduction and underconsumption, has hit vineyards hard everywhere, he said, and he declared the only thing for them to do is "to organize and play politics to the limit to protect your interests in your respective countries." He also advised the congress to draw up an international program for world-wide defense of wine.

Five remedies for the crisis in the wine industry were proposed by Edouard Barthe, French deputy and president of the international wine bureau, who will preside over the convention here. Barthe recommended the reduction or abolition of customs duties on wine; increase of propaganda to encourage greater wine consumption; voluntary restriction of production; transformation of wine into industrial alcohol; and active agitation for repeal of prohibition legislation in countries where it already has been enacted.

Find Woman's Body in Trunk; Suspect Seized

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

Philadelphia, Pa., March 7.—[Special.]—The body of a woman believed to have been Mrs. Mattie Schaff, 59, proprietor of a lodging house in Atlantic City, was found in a trunk in a Philadelphia rooming house today. She had been strangled with a piece of clothes line.

After a four hour investigation Louis Fine, 56, a former Philadelphia real estate man, was arrested in Atlantic City and charged with murder. Fine collapsed under questioning and was removed to the Atlantic City hospital.

Discovered by Landlord.

Julius Hoffmann, in whose rooming house the body was found, told police that a heavy set man with a small red mustache rented a room from him last Friday afternoon and had a trunk moved in some time later. The Hoffmanns said they never saw him again after that evening.

Yesterday, Hoffmann continued, he noticed a strange odor coming from the room. He investigated and found that the bed had not been slept in. The odor was coming from the large locked trunk.

He summoned police and detectives broke open the trunk. Inside they found a smaller trunk, around which were packed women's garments. Inside that lay the woman, with snow white hair and wearing a black figured dress, flesh colored stockings, and no hat. She had considerable jewelry. Lying on her back, her knees were pulled up to her chin and her arms clasped about the knees.

Trunk Is Traced.

Tracing the trunk's detectives ascertained from an express company that it had been shipped here from Atlantic City last Wednesday. It had been sent from Mrs. Schaff's rooming house, and Fine, it was learned, had arranged for the shipment. Investigation here revealed that the trunk was delivered first to the real estate office of Mitchell J. Lichow on Friday morning, but Lichow, who said he had known Fine some years, refused to accept it.

Lichow said that a short time after the express wagon left Fine himself appeared outside the real estate office and stood there a while. A few minutes later he walked around the corner and hired a truck from David Weinstein, who delivered the trunk to the rooming house.

"This Is Not Lindy's Baby,"

Cleveland, O., March 7.—[Special.]—Family parties coming from the east have strange placards on their automobile windshields. One today read: "This is not the Lindbergh baby." Another read, "This baby is a girl."

3 GUNMEN CAUGHT BY 3 POLICEMEN IN TRAP GIVE UP

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

Three men carrying four guns were trapped by a police squad last night in Silver's haberdashery store at 4220 Broadway. They surrendered without a shot when the besiegers threatened to "blow them to pieces."

The three were seen entering the store by Sgt. John Nick and Policemen Gus Bellock and Frank Bychowski of the Town Hall station. The police ran to the store entrance and Sgt. Nick leveled a shotgun at the gunman stationed behind the glass door as a lookout. He surrendered and was joined by his two pals who had dived behind the counters when the police appeared.

At the station the three prisoners identified themselves as John Brockman, 36 years old, no address; Sam Friedman, 33, of the Savoy hotel, and Sam Senoske, 36, of 3512 Emerald avenue.

Senoske told police that he is on parole from Joliet prison, where he served seven years of a sentence of from one year to life for robbery. Brockman admitted having served terms at Fort Madison, Ia., for robbery, and at Leavenworth for transporting a stolen car.

744 CARAT GEM OF PERSIAN KING ON WAY TO U. S.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, March 7.—A diamond weighing 744 carats, recently discovered at Isfahan, Persia, during the demolition of a nobleman's house, has been shipped to New York for disposal there.

The huge diamond is known as the "Cushion of Koh-i-Nor." Although its destination is being kept secret, it is learned that the gem will be turned over to the owner of a New York gallery who recently disposed of a solid emerald drinking cup of more than 200 carats, a relic of the Emperor Tchanghi. The diamond is being carried by a messenger guarded by two detectives.

Nadir Shah, the Persian conqueror, returned to Isfahan from India in 1739 and was murdered. The diamond had since been missing. A workman recently discovered it and sold it to an Armenian, who smuggled it out of the country.

Gene Tunney Asks Guard for Baby; Fears Kidnapers

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

CASTLE HARBOR, Bermuda, March 7.—Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, told friends here today that before he left New York he had requested Police Commissioner Mulrooney for a special police guard for the Tunney baby, to avoid its being made the victim of kidnapers incited by the Lindbergh abduction.

LINDBERGH GETS LETTERS; CHILD'S SAFETY ASSURED

Contact Believed Established with Abductors.

LATE BULLETINS IN SEARCH FOR MISSING CHILD

BY TOM PETTEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—The way has been cleared for the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby to communicate with the anxious parents and tonight it was becoming increasingly evident that they were in contact with the abductors of their infant son. The communications from the kidnapers, according to persistent reports, was in the form of two letters. The notes are said to have assured Col. Charles A. Lindbergh that his son was safe and well. One of the notes was said to be typewritten and the other penciled. The one in long-hand, handwriting experts who are supposed to have seen it said, resembled the handwriting of the ransom note left in the nursery last Tuesday night.

Police Are Noncommittal.

Police officials qualified their denials that the Lindberghs had been in touch with the kidnapers with the repeated phrase, "not through us," and friends of the family would not say the Lindberghs appeared more hopeful than at any time since the crime was committed.

At Hopewell, a few miles from the Lindbergh home, officials appeared definitely cheerful and there were indications that matters were working toward a happy conclusion.

Capt. J. J. Lamb, in command of the state police at the Lindbergh home, expressed the belief that the child was alive and well. He would not say what led him to think this. Other police appeared confident no physical harm had come to the baby.

The actual situation was surrounded with secrecy, but there was every outward indication of a change in sentiment on this, the sixth day of the search.

Many Wild Rumors.

There were reports that Salvy Spitalo and Irving Bliz, the two gangland go-betweens named by Col. Lindbergh, were in conference at the Lindbergh home during the afternoon, but this could not be confirmed. There were even rumors that the baby would be returned tonight or tomorrow.

Persons close to the family refused to discuss the reported contact with the kidnapers, but the report gained importance and credence after Gov. A. Harry Moore in Trenton declared that, while he would not grant immunity to the kidnapers because he did not have the authority, New Jersey would erect no barrier between the abductors and the baby's family.

"All we want is to get the baby back," said the governor.

Police insisted they were completely in the dark regarding Col. Lindbergh's private efforts to find his son. The police also refused to discuss the whereabouts or activities of Spitalo and Bliz.

Mail Supervision Removed.

Gov. Moore and Maj. Charles A. Schoeffel, deputy chief of state police, revealed that all police supervision of the Lindbergh mail had been removed. The officials said they would even withdraw the police guard from around the Lindbergh home if the famous aviator desired such action. Col. Lindbergh, the governor said, had not requested such action.

"If the kidnapers want to get in touch with the Lindberghs," said Gov. Moore, "the way is open for them to do so. We do not want them to be scared off by any idea that the police see every letter addressed to the colonel or Mrs. Lindbergh."

Capt. John J. Lamb indicated New Jersey was willing to let justice wait if the Lindbergh baby was returned when he said his men at Hopewell had orders to "do everything possible to help the kidnapers get that baby back to its parents."

Lindy Welcomes Troops.

Nevertheless the baby was still missing late tonight and there was no definite knowledge in police circles that it was still alive. Col. Lindbergh was quoted by Gov. Moore as saying that he and his wife do not wish to be alone in the house, and prefer that troops be quartered there. Word from the house was that the Lindberghs were in fairly good health despite the terrific strain of the last six days. Mrs. Lindbergh was said to be extremely nervous, but there was no indication that she was approaching a break-

New York, March 8 (4 a.m. Tuesday).—There was a strong expression this morning that the Lindbergh baby may be returned within the next 48 hours. Without disclosing any of the details of the developments, a prominent legal representative of the Lindbergh family, who departed from the Hopewell estate shortly before midnight, imparted to friends the information that there was a "good chance" that the whole case would be "washed up within 48 hours." He explained that he meant the ransom would be transferred to agents of the kidnapers and the Morrow-Lindbergh heir restored to its parents.

New York, March 8 (Tuesday).—(Special.)—John Ferrigno of Southport, Conn., identified Henry (Red) Johnson of Englewood, friend of Betty Gow, Lindbergh's nurse, as the man who picked him up in the Bronx last Wednesday at 7:30 a. m. and gave him a ride as far as Bridgeport. He pointed Johnson out of a group in Newark police headquarters last midnight.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 7.—(AP)—Police late tonight said they had learned an unsigned telegram addressed to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was sent from Minneapolis informing him to "take Salvi out of New York" and to "deal with Chicago direct."

According to detectives the telegram said: "Baby fair, doing good."

Police learned of the telegram, they said, when an oil filling station attendant reported that two men and a woman forced him into a washroom after getting change for a $1 bill. They used the change for a telephone call. The attendant told police of the call after the trio had left and detectives traced it to a telephone company.

Detective Sergeant James Mullen professed to have no idea whether it was an effort to get in touch with the Lindberghs, whether it was a hoax, or whether it simply was an attempt to divert attention from the hideouts of the kidnapers in the northwest.

New York, March 8 (Tuesday).—(Special.)—Another new figure entered the case with the arrest at New Haven, Conn., last night of Tony Meslo, 43, a concrete contractor. Major Frank M. Nichols of the state police said his questioning had "opened an entirely new angle." Meslo will be quizzed again today.

down. Her mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, has been with her since the day after the kidnapping.

Spitalo, who was so confident last night that he could contact with the kidnapers, dropped out of his newly gained limelight today. He was reported in a dozen places simultaneously, but nothing tangible concerning his activities, if there were any activities, was learned.

Hope in Underworld.

Col. Lindbergh, however, appeared to be placing his hope in the underworld for the return of his baby and probably was in close touch with Spitalo and Bliz over the private telephone which rests on a desk in his den.

The police, while not so active as in the past, continued their independent search and tracked down every clue that seemed at all promising. Several detectives were busy all day checking on the movements of Henry (Red) Johnson, the sailor friend of Betty Gow, the Lindbergh nursemaid. Tonight Johnson was still being held in Newark, where he was taken from Hartford, Conn., Saturday night.

Maj. Schoeffel refused to discuss the Johnson angle of the case in any detail. He said that Miss Gow's aunt would not be released until every statement he has made had been checked.

The large crop of rumors that grew out of Hopewell and Trenton today was largely because of the paucity of real information available. Both Gov. Moore's office and Col. Schwartzkopf declined to answer many questions and gave evasive answers to others. As a consequence there was a lot of interpretative writing, and by the time it reached the papers over the country several new mysteries had been born.

One of them concerned denials that an actual ransom note had been found in or about the nursery or anywhere else. It is true the underworld or gang kidnapping theory is discredited. It was, however, fairly well established that the denial of the receipt of a ransom note was to squelch comment on it.

Clears Up One Point.
This afternoon's interview with Col. Schwartzkopf was prefaced by the following statement:

"All questions concerning Spiale and Hitt, the ransom negotiations with the kidnapers and the habits and activities of the Lindbergh family will not be answered."

In the interview Col. Schwartzkopf said Betty Gow, the maid, "was going about her normal household duties between 7:30 and 8 o'clock the night of the kidnapping."
The point concerning muddy footprints in the nursery was cleared up. Mrs. Schofield did not discover the prints. They were found by a trooper. The marks, it was said, were noticed on the window sill and just below on the floor. For a time it was denied there were any prints or footmarks of any kind inside the nursery. This led to the belief that the job had been done by some one inside the house who handed the child through the window to a confederate outside. The footprints, it was learned, have been compared with those of a number of persons, but without identification.

There was no indication that either any other drug had been used to quiet the baby while he was being taken from his crib, the spokesman for the police said.

Ransom Letter Unproductive.
The $500,000 ransom demand letter which interested investigators late this afternoon had been investigated without tangible results tonight.

In Elmhurst, N. Y., where the letter was found, expressed the opinion that publication of the text frightened the writer away from the meeting place he had named near Mansfield, Pa.
The letter, written in red ink and addressed to Col. Lindbergh at Hopeville, read:

"We settled our mind. You send representative with $500,000 in $20 bills wrapped in newspaper to Mansfield, Pa., and your representative will meet ours at the Cross Trail restaurant. We will leave baby at same place three hours after money is paid providing there are no queer acting people inside or out. Be sure and be there at 7:30 p. m. Monday, March 7. He is crying now."

The inn was visited and the town checked for suspicious characters without success. Police are watching every thoroughfare in the neighborhood, but no one has yet appeared to discuss the ransom demand.

Caught in Trap, Freed.
Two men and a woman, arrested in what appeared to be an attempt to collect a $500,000 ransom for the Lindbergh baby, were being questioned tonight at Bristol, Pa., but police believed they had no connection with the actual seizure of the child.

A note demanding $500,000 for the baby's return, and asking that it be collected under a bridge near Crofton, Pa., at 8 o'clock tonight had been intercepted Saturday. A trooper resembling Lindbergh and a woman companion drove to the appointed spot while state troopers hid in the underbrush nearby.

Shortly before 8 o'clock an automobile containing the two men and the woman was driven to a stop near the "Lindbergh" car. Before the police could surround it, however, the machine sped off. It was pursued and halted after a mile chase. Questioning of the occupants, police said, failed to reveal any knowledge of the Lindbergh baby, and the trio was released.

The couple convinced the police it was by coincidence they stopped near the "Lindbergh" auto. Police declined to make public their names, saying that to do so would cause "domestic difficulties."

Urge Increased Ransom.
Certain of Col. Lindbergh's advisers continued tonight to urge him to raise the ransom price demanded in the original note by offering a reward of

Officials Return from Kidnap Parley; No Clues in Chicago

State's Attorney Swanson, Chief Investigator Pat Roche, and Lieut. William Cusack returned from a conference with Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey yesterday and said there wasn't a fact available to indicate that either the Lindbergh kidnapers or the baby were in Chicago.

The officials had tendered the services of all Chicago officials, but other than the general request for constant vigilance there wasn't a specific direction or instruction given, they reported. None was of the belief the baby had been or would be brought here. It's too far away from the scene of any possible negotiations, they said.

Call Kidnapers Amateurs.
"A professional kidnaper would have demanded more than $500,000," said Roche, "knowing that the Lindberghs could pay more. I believe Col. Lindbergh's son was kidnapped by amateurs, as professionals would never have overlooked cutting the telephone wires into the Lindbergh home."

"I attended the conference called by Gov. Moore," Lieut. Cusack reported to Commissioner Altman. "There was not even a hint that any one in Chicago was implicated or even suspected. I also interviewed Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh. They hadn't a suspicion in the world against any one, and neither they nor the governor could tell us any way in which we can help other than to be ever on the alert until the baby is returned."

Lieut. Cusack denied a statement attributed to him that certain Chicago men and women were suspected or identified in any way. He had not seen the letter left behind by the kidnapers, he said, but as it was generally known in the east he confirmed more than double the $500,000 for the return of his boy. They pointed out that the child was known to the world as "a million dollar baby" and that if the money was offered as a reward for the return of the child rather than the capture of the criminals it might produce results.

Tonight the wall of silence that has guarded the Lindbergh estate appeared higher than ever and little news that was authentic came from the house on the hill. Hopewell, since the second day of the kidnapping case has been receiving its information from friendly third hand from friendly troopers, snatches of overheard conversations, and grapevine gossip.

TWO DRUG STORES IN SOUTH SHORE DISTRICT BOMBED
The south shore was jarred shortly before 3 o'clock this morning by two powerful bomb explosions, both directed against drug stores, which are located less than a mile apart. The blasts occurred almost simultaneously, indicating prearrangement to the minute, police believed.

The stores blasted were William G. Trautvetter's at 2334 East 71st street, and L. P. Klink's at 1900 East 73d street. The fronts of both places were wrecked. Windows in the neighborhoods were shattered. The sounds of the bombings aroused hundreds of families within the radius of a mile. Trautvetter estimated his damage at about $500. The damage to Klink's pharmacy was figured at $1,000 by Police.

Neither of the pharmacy owners offered a definite motive for the attack, although Trautvetter suggested a possible theory. He told police that he was one of the robbery witnesses against Carl Parker and Stanley A. Wilson, convicted bandits, now out on probation through the intervention of Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo. He is assisting in the move to return the men to prison. He suggested this as the only possible motive for the bombing of his store.

Cold to Continue

Extremely low temperatures and high winds, according to the weather bureau, will continue today and tomorrow in Chicago. A minimum close to zero is expected this morning. The wind yesterday reached a velocity of 27 miles an hour, with gusts approaching the 50 mile mark, adding to the discomfort of the cold.

In the city the lowest official temperature yesterday was 3 above zero. Last night at midnight the mercury stood at an unofficial 8 degrees. Suburbs at that time reported the following readings:

Ashtabula 5
Kankakee 2
Laurens 2
Marengo 2
Morton 2
Ottawa 2
Rockford 2
St. Joseph 2

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—A furious northwest gale that set in Monday continued tonight to lash the Atlantic seaboard. Accompanied by driving snow and temperatures from freezing to below zero, it paralyzed communications, tore down telegraph and telephone lines, leveled trees and houses, blocked highways, isolated towns, delayed trains, and caused accidents that took a toll of 31 lives. Property damage was heavy.

At sea the gale churned up tremendous waves and worked widespread havoc with shipping. Many vessels were rendered helpless, and from Maine to Florida coast guards were kept busy.

Liner Aids Disabled Vessel.
The coast guard craft and the White Star liner Adriatic are standing by the disabled collier H. F. De Berdeleben off Nantucket shoals. The collier, which left Boston Saturday bound for Norfolk, called for help this afternoon. The master of the De Berdeleben explained that he was unable to slow the engines. His crew comprises 25 men.

Coast guard cutters braved terrific seas off the Delaware capes in a futile search for a fleet of three fishing schooners. These were: The Winifred M., Winifred Martin and Native. They carried 20 men. The fishing sloop Anne for which coast guards had been seeking for 24 hours, was towed into the Abacoan Inlet near Atlantic City by three of her sister ships. The body of one of two coast guards drowned in the fruitless attempt to reach the Anne in a picket boat came ashore at Atlantic City. The body of his companion has not been recovered. Three other coast guards, who put out in a boat to get to the aid of the Anne still are missing.

Schooner Wreck Is Found.
Wreckage of a schooner was washed ashore near Cape May, N. J. A second boat, also believed to be a schooner,

NEW JERSEY ASSEMBLY EXTENDS SYMPATHY TO THE LINDBERGH

Trenton, N. J., March 7.—[Special.]—The New Jersey assembly tonight unanimously adopted a resolution expressing "its deep and heartfelt sympathy" to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh over the kidnapping of their son and adding that "we do devoutly offer our prayer for the safe and immediate return of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. to his grief-stricken parents." A bill strengthening the punishment of convicted kidnapers, which Assemblyman John J. Rafferty introduced in the assembly tonight, was not brought up for consideration.

was reported ashore near Cape Henlopen, Del.

The coast guard cutter Seneca reported it was standing by the oil barge Transfer 20, which broke away from a tug while being towed into the Delaware breakwater. Heavy seas were breaking over the barge and a man was observed waving frantically from the cabin. No word had been received from the steamer Norwalk with a crew of 21, which left New York Saturday bound for the Chesapeake bay.

Tabulations showed 28 deaths in various sections. Five were frozen to death or killed when they walked into moving automobiles during the snowstorm in Maryland. Five similarly were killed in Pennsylvania. Two men lost their lives when swept from a boat by waves in Chesapeake bay. A woman and her son were killed near Wauchula, Fla., when their home was blown down. Seven were killed in Georgia, two in North Carolina and one each in Arkansas and Tennessee.

A railroad flagman was killed at a crossing in Cambria, N. Y., in a snow storm. A man was found unconscious from exposure on the beach at Forked River, N. J., and one died in Brooklyn of a heart attack while cranking his auto. Three persons were killed in Washington, D. C.

COLD TO CONTINUE.
Yesterday was the third straight day of extreme cold in Chicago and the middle west and the weather bureau forecast indicated no prospect of a return to milder conditions today or tomorrow. Only hope and a long range viewpoint justified a belief that moderation will occur by Thursday.

"The weather map," said Forecaster C. A. Donnell, "shows no evidence of a return to springlike temperatures. However, five days would seem to be enough. Cold spells like this one seldom last so long and the sun has great energy at this time of the year. Those are the optimistic features."

The temperature range yesterday was from 3 above at 7 a. m. to 14 above at 4 p. m. The mean was 8.

A normal mean for March 7 is 32 degrees. Until Friday evening the month of March had established an average of temperature of twenty-six degrees. This has been wiped out and last night the month's record showed a deficiency of twenty-six degrees. Each of the three cold spell days averaged seventeen degrees below normal.

SENATE REFUSES TO CUT BUREAUS BY 46 TO 20 VOTE

Test Comes on Barberry, Cattle Tick Eradication.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—Only twenty senators out of a total of sixty-six voting were willing to go on record today in favor of cutting some of the bureaucratic extravagance out of the $178,274,567 agricultural appropriation bill, now pending in the senate.

The test came on an amendment offered by Senator Kenneth McKellar (Dem., Tenn.) to eliminate the $196,400 appropriation for the fourteen year old bureau dedicated to the eradication of the barberry, host to wheat rust. Of the twenty senators who voted for the amendment, only three were Republicans. The radicals of both parties were conspicuous among the 46 who voted in opposition.

Senators McKellar, Tydings (Dem., Md.), King (Dem., Utah), Logan (Dem., Ky.), and Glenn (Rep., Ill.) were conspicuous in warning their colleagues that the transcendent issue among a people burdened by taxation was the curtailment of government expenditures.

Economy Biggest Issue. If congress does not heed the popular demand at this session, declared Senator Glenn, it will be made to do so at the next session. "It is no partisan matter," he declared. "It is a national necessity. The livestock issue today, transcending prohibition, the tariff, or the world court, is the threefold and interrelated issue of government extravagance, crushing taxes, and unemployment."

After the roll call on the amendment to abolish the barberry eradication bureau, the senate without a record vote similarly turned down an amendment to eliminate the $724,400 for cattle tick eradication.

"Such appropriations as these," Senator McKellar declared, "do no help to the farmer. All they do is help bureaucracy."

"States Should Help Selves." Senator Tydings objected to Maryland being taxed to help Iowa farmers do what he said they ought to be doing for themselves.

"We spent $50 millions to combat the chestnut bark blight which was prevalent in Maryland and taxed Oregon citizens to do it," replied Senator Charles L. McNary (Rep., Ore.), who is in charge of the bill. "If you spent $50 millions," retorted Senator Tydings, "it was wasted; for there isn't a live chestnut tree in Maryland today."

Senator McKellar pointed out that of the $196,400 for barberry eradication, $15,530 was to be spent for salaries in Washington.

"I am not saying that these appropriations are not worth while," asserted Senator Logan. "But I do say that in times like these we must deny ourselves things even though they are useful. We have talked about economy and done nothing. The reductions we have accomplished are nothing more than nibbling around the edges."

Could Cut a Billion. "Bureaucracy has become Frankenstein's monster. Bureau heads with their demands flout the executives and control congress. I don't blame the people for hiding their money. We shall never stop hoarding until we restore the people's confidence in their government."

"What we ought to do is to cut appropriations a billion dollars. We could do it if we had the courage. Whenever any cut is suggested, said

Kirby Jackson, who for 43 years was an engineer with the Pennsylvania railroad, will celebrate his 100th birthday today at 5344 Greenwood avenue, where he lives with his daughter, Miss Grace Jackson, a teacher in the Hyde Park High school.

Mr. Jackson spent yesterday in reading the hundreds of letters he received, congratulating him on his birthday. He received many bouquets, one of 100 roses, and another from the teachers of the Hyde Park High school.

The centenarian attributed his long life to his avoidance of worry. He takes a walk daily except in inclement weather. He was born in New Brighton, Pa.

Senator King, the opposition springs up to declare that "that item is indispensable; let the cut be made somewhere else."

"Departments and bureaus become entrenched," he said. "The expenditures for government are out of all proportion to the benefits derived from it."

Vote is 46 to 20.

The vote on the McKellar amendment to eradicate the barberry eradication bureau was as follows:

Senators voting for the amendment—20: Republicans [33]—Glenn (Ill.), Moses (N. H.), Vandenberg (Mich.), Barkley (Ky.), Bulow (S. D.), Byrnes (S. C.), Coolidge (Mass.), Dill (Wash.), Fletcher (Fla.), George (Ga.), Gore (Okla.), Harrison (Miss.), King (Utah), Logan (Ky.), McNary (Tenn.), Robinson (Ark.), Trammell (Fla.), Tydings (Md.), Walsh (Mass.).

Senators voting against the amendment—46: Republicans [32]—Austin (Iowa), Barbour (N. J.), Blaine (Vt.), Borah (Idaho), Brookhart (Iowa), Capper (Kans.), Couzens (Mich.), Cutting (N. M.), Dale (Vt.), Davis (Pa.), Dickson (Iowa), Fess (Ohio), Frazier (N. D.), Goldborough (Md.), Hale (Me.), Howell (Neb.), Johnson (Cal.), Jones (Wash.), Keam (N. J.), Keyes (N. H.), McNary (Tenn.), Norbeck (S. D.), Norris (Neb.), Nye (N. D.), Odell (Nev.), Schall (Minn.), Smoot (Utah), Thomas (Idaho), Townsend (Del.), Walcott (Conn.), Watson (Ind.), White (Me.).

Democrats [13]—Bailey (N. C.), Brown (La.), Connally (Tex.), Copeland (N. Y.), Coughlin (Colo.), Hayden (Ariz.), Kendrick (Wyo.), McGill (Kans.), Neely (W. Va.), Sheppard (Tex.), Smith (S. C.), Wagner (N. Y.), Walsh (Mont.).

NEW RUM CASE BLASTS CAPONE PAROLE CHANCE

U. S. to Ask Reindictment of Gang Chief and 68.

A new booze conspiracy indictment, which is expected to keep Al Capone from gaining parole on his eleven year prison sentence for income tax fraud, is to be sought by the government. The action will be based on additional evidence uncovered since the gang chief and 68 of his associates were indicted last June on charges of a $20,000,000 a year beer conspiracy.

This was disclosed yesterday following a conference between United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and G. A. Youngquist, assistant United States attorney general in charge of prohibition and income tax cases.

Raids Give New Evidence. The new evidence, it is said, is a result of raids on several large breweries and seizures of beer trucks since the first indictment was returned, and will strengthen the government's case not only against the 68 co-defendants but against Capone himself. Federal agents, as a result of their new evidence, called the case against Capone "air tight," but the district attorney has intimated that he will not urge the trial of Capone on the conspiracy charge.

With the indictment on file against him, Capone would not be eligible for parole until completing his term, with the allowance for good behavior. Conviction on the conspiracy charge would add a maximum of only two years to his imprisonment.

Discuss New Tax Campaign. Besides completing arrangements for the liquor indictment, it was said that Mr. Johnson and Mr. Youngquist discussed action which is to be brought in the near future against several police captains, politicians and hoodlums on charges of income tax dodging.

Interviewed shortly after the conference, the assistant attorney general praised Mr. Johnson's campaign against tax dodgers. "There have been more successful prosecutions in this district, by far, than in any other district in the country," Mr. Youngquist said. "Mr. Johnson's pioneering in this phase of federal prosecution has literally scared hundreds of thousands of dollars in the United States treasury. The fate of Al Capone was a lesson that tax dodgers have taken to heart."

Capone has been in the county jail four months awaiting the outcome of his appeal from the tax fraud sentence.

Discuss New Tax Campaign. Besides completing arrangements for the liquor indictment, it was said that Mr. Johnson and Mr. Youngquist discussed action which is to be brought in the near future against several police captains, politicians and hoodlums on charges of income tax dodging.

Interviewed shortly after the conference, the assistant attorney general praised Mr. Johnson's campaign against tax dodgers. "There have been more successful prosecutions in this district, by far, than in any other district in the country," Mr. Youngquist said. "Mr. Johnson's pioneering in this phase of federal prosecution has literally scared hundreds of thousands of dollars in the United States treasury. The fate of Al Capone was a lesson that tax dodgers have taken to heart."

Capone has been in the county jail four months awaiting the outcome of his appeal from the tax fraud sentence.

Boy, 6, Falls Through Thin River Ice and Is Drowned

David Hurtig, 6 years old, 5115 North Central Park avenue, was drowned yesterday when he fell through thin ice into the north branch of the Chicago river near Carmen and Central Park avenues. James Gillis, 9 years old, 5124 North Central Park avenue, seized one of David's hands as he fell, but a mitten which the younger boy was wearing slipped off and the current swept him beneath the ice. Firemen recovered the body.

ESTIMATED REVENUE UNDER SCHEDULE OF NEW TAX MEASURE

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special.]—Following is a table of anticipated revenue under the provisions of the tax bill introduced in the house today:

Manufacturers' sales tax	$55,000,000
Increases in individual income taxes	12,000,000
Corporate income tax	21,000,000
Estate tax increases and gift tax	35,000,000
Admissions to places of amusement	90,000,000
Stock transfers	28,000,000
Lubricating oil	25,000,000
Malt syrup, grape concentrates, wort	50,000,000
Telegraph, radio, telephone messages	35,000,000
Imported gasoline, crude fuel, and gasoline oil	5,000,000
Administrative changes (capital gains and loss)	100,000,000
Total new revenue	$1,098,000,000 ligious reading, thought, or action, books of religious statistics, and [24] Altars, pulpits, communion tables, baptismal fonts, and shrines, parts thereof, religious statuary and pictures, collection envelopes, plates, and baskets, stationery and record books, cassocks, banners, and articles of regalia worn on the person or carried in the hand, tapers, lights, and candles, sanctuary oil; all the foregoing when manufactured exclusively for use in houses of worship.

Multitudinous changes are made in the present law affecting income taxes. The normal taxes are increased to 2 per cent on the first $4,000, 4 per cent on the next $4,000, and 6 per cent on the remainder. The surtaxes start with 1 per cent on incomes over $10,000 and under $12,000 and rise to 40 per cent on incomes of more than $100,000.

In addition to reducing personal exemptions from $1,500 to $1,000 for single persons and from $3,500 to $2,500 for married persons, the maximum deduction for earned income is reduced from $30,000 to $12,000. The provision governing earned income deduction follows:

(F) Earned income credit.—12 1/2 per cent of the amount of the earned net income, but not in excess of 12 1/2 per cent of the amount of the net income.

Define Earned Income.

(G) Earned income definitions.—For the purposes of this section:

"Earned income" means wages, salaries, professional fees, and other amounts received as compensation for personal services actually rendered, but does not include that part of the compensation derived by the taxpayer for personal services rendered by him to a corporation which represents a disbursement of earnings or profits rather than a reasonable allowance as compensation for the personal services actually rendered.

In the case of a taxpayer engaged in a trade or business in which both personal services and capital are material income producing factors, a reasonable allowance as compensation for the personal services actually rendered by the taxpayer, not in excess of 20 per cent of his share of the net profits of such trade or business, shall be considered as earned income.

(2) "Earned income deductions" means such deductions as are allowed by section 22 for the purpose of computing net income, and are properly allocable to or chargeable against earned income.

Under $5,000 Earned Income.

(3) "Earned net income" means the excess of the amount of the earned income over the sum of the earned income deductions. If the taxpayer's net income is not more than $5,000, his entire net income shall be considered to be earned net income, and if his net income is more than $5,000 his earned net income shall not be considered to be less than $5,000. In no case shall the earned net income be considered to be more than $12,000.

The gift tax begins at 1 1/2 per cent on gifts of less than $50,000 and rises to 30 per cent on gifts of more than $50,000. The bill provides that this tax shall be imposed upon the transfer "by any individual, resident, or nonresident, of property by gift" and adds this provision:

"The tax shall apply whether the transfer is in trust or otherwise, whether the gift is direct or indirect, and whether the property is real or personal, tangible or intangible."

SENATE MEASURE DEMANDS PRICE FIXING IN WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—A constitutional amendment authorizing congress, in time of war, to fix prices to prevent profiteering was introduced into the senate today by Senator Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.), member of the war policies commission which sponsors the amendment.

"Demagogue war," said Senator Vandenberg, "and you make it unpopular. The majority of our commission felt that congress already has the power to fix prices in a martial emergency; but a minority wanted to make assurance doubly sure; hence this amendment."

Further Check on Profits.

The amendment, which was referred to the judiciary committee, calls for an addition to the existing 5th amendment, providing that "in time of war congress may regulate or provide for the regulation of the prices, rent, or compensation to be exacted or paid by any person in respect of the sale, rent, or use of any real or personal property, tangible or intangible, without regard to any limitation contained in this article or any other article of the constitution."

"Should corporations or persons succeed in evading such a price fixing regulation, the commission suggests a further check on profits by recommending a 95 per cent tax on all income in time of war in excess of the average income of the preceding three years."

Compel Acceptance of Orders.

Senator Dill (Dem., Wash.) objected to the proposed amendment on the ground that the commission, created by a joint congressional resolution, had sought to "fix rather than to prevent" war profits.

The report of the commission, sent today to President Hoover, further recommended, pending the passage of the constitutional amendment, that in war time the President have power to compel acceptance of war orders, and that in peace time the war and navy departments be given extended powers to prevent profiteering in national defense.

It was to this last provision that Representative Ross A. Collins (Dem., Miss.), a member of the commission, took exception and submitted a minority report opposing the idea that military men be permitted to regulate prices for civilians, recommending that administrative matters should be entirely in the hands of civilians.

ROB GLEN ELLYN OFFICE; SLUG A CLERK; GET $180

Two gunmen robbed the offices of the Western United Gas and Electric company at 431 Main street, Glen Ellyn, of $180 yesterday. In their haste the gunmen overlooked $1,800.

When the robbers entered they walked up to the cage where Florence Lundquist, the cashier, was standing. One of the pair covered Miss Lundquist while the other leveled his revolver at four employees and one customer. Donald Larson, a clerk, was slow in raising his hands, and one bandit slugged him on the head with his revolver.

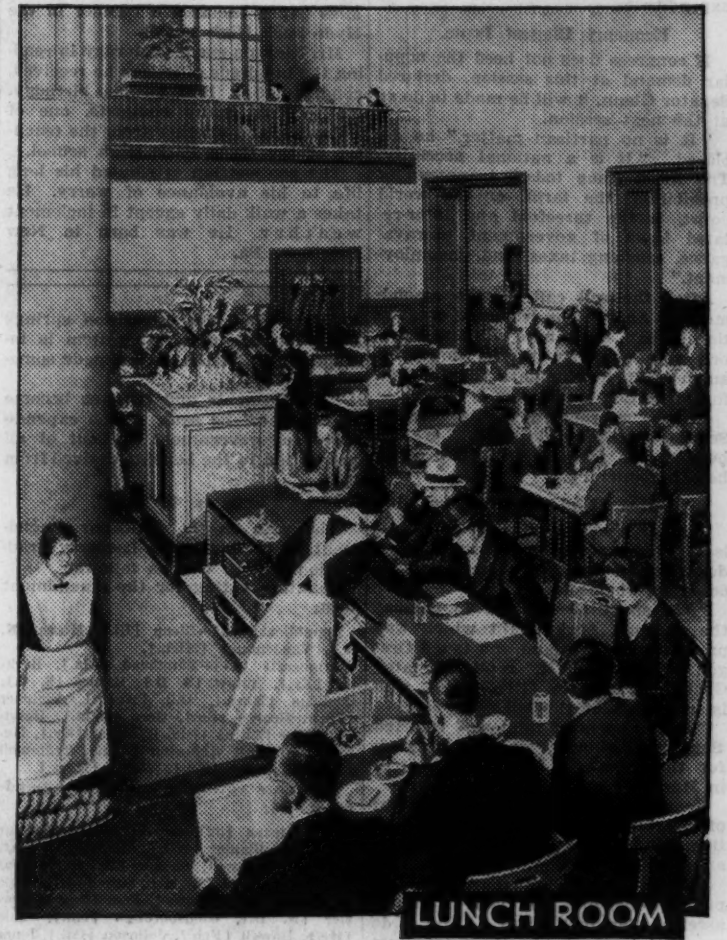

The robbers escaped in a coupe driven by a third man.

Why let them get the best of you?

Ills that plague us at this time of year do not come from exposure or indoor living alone as many people think.

They are infections caused by germs. These germs are most likely to do harm at times when vitality is low, as after exposure to drafts or bad weather.

It is the fatal combination of low resistance plus the presence of germs which brings on dreaded ills.

The very best way to escape them is to build good resistance!

Begin today to protect yourself with the new vitamin concentrate of cod-liver oil—Squibb Adex Tablets!

Squibb Adex Tablets contain an abundance of Vitamin A. This is the important factor which helps to maintain resistance against infections of the nose and throat.

ance against infections of the nose and throat.

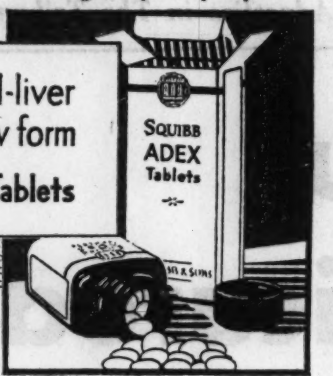

Squibb Adex Tablets also supply Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin which tones the system. Each Adex Tablet provides as much of Vitamins A and D as one-half teaspoonful of Squibb Cod-Liver Oil.

Well people who want to stay well should not fail to take Squibb Adex Tablets regularly every day.

Many who for years have wanted to take cod-liver oil and waited its availability in a pleasant form can now receive its health-building benefits this agreeable new way.

CORD DEFENDS AIR LINE SAFETY; WINS APPROVAL

Board Finds Charges of Ex-Pilots Unfounded.

The Chicago aero commission, investigating a charge made by discharged Century Air Line pilots that operation of the line is unsafe, found no basis for the charges yesterday afternoon. This finding was reported to the aviation committee of the city council, which had requested the commission to make an inquiry.

The commission also reported that no evidence was found of sabotage or picketing on the part of the discharged pilots. This was based on the statement of E. L. Cord, president of the Century corporation, which controls the air line, who told the commission the pilots had caused the line no trouble.

Cord Praises Airmen.

Asked why he had employed armed Pinkerton guards to watch the Century hangar at Chicago airport, Mr. Cord replied: "I don't fear the pilots for a moment. They are of too high a type to do anything to an airplane that would endanger peoples' lives. I am not at liberty to say just what I do fear. But there are more interests in this dispute than the discharged pilots and the Air Line Pilots' association."

The 21 discharged pilots are members of the pilots' association, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. They were discharged on Feb. 9, following a wage dispute. Since then the federation has taken up their dispute and carried it into congressional committee meetings, attempting to defeat Mr. Cord's bids for air mail contracts.

"Century and Century-Pacific air lines now employ more than 50 pilots," Mr. Cord told the commissioners. "and before the end of the year we expect to employ more than 150 as a result of expansions."

Ten Pilots at Hearing.

Ten of the discharged pilots, headed by C. H. Thomas, appeared before the commission in an effort to substantiate their statements that the operation of Century Air Line is unsafe. M. C. Meigs, chairman of the commission, pointed out that it was empowered to consider only questions of public safety, and not the wage dispute.

The pilots attacked the ability and experience of the pilots who had taken their jobs. Mr. Cord later satisfied the commissioners that the allegations were unfounded. John Casey,

Flying Forecasts

Special flying route forecasts for the period from 9 p. m. March 7 to noon March 8:

Chicago-Detroit—Mostly clear, may become scattered to broken cloudiness over extreme north; fresh to strong northwest winds; strong west to northwest winds at low elevations, sales higher.

Chicago-St. Louis—Clear, followed by increasing cloudiness, mostly high clouds; fresh to strong northwest winds at surface, strong higher, sale force over extreme north.

Chicago-Twin Cities—Mostly broken to overcast, probably a few snow flurries; fresh to strong west to northwest winds; fresh to strong west to northwest winds.

Chicago-Des Moines—Overcast; fresh to strong northwest winds near surface, strong higher over south.

Chicago-Kansas City—Overcast over extreme south, snow flurries not unlikely, clear followed by increasing cloudiness over central and north; fresh northwest winds near surface over south, fresh to strong north, strong higher over south.

Route forecasts for 12 hours ending at noon:

Evansville-Atlanta—Mostly cloudy sky, probably becoming threatening Atlanta to Nashville; moderate northwest or north winds up to 1,000 feet and fresh west northwest, becoming west near Atlanta at 5,000 feet.

Cleveland-New York—Cloudy sky with snow flurries; strong west, northwest winds near surface and west northwest sale near New York.

manager of Chicago airport, reported to the commission that the new pilots are qualified under the laws of the department of commerce, and that there is no evidence of Century operations being unsafe.

HIGHWAY BIDS SHOW 20% COST
CUT IN A YEAR

The county board opened bids on eighteen paving and two bridge projects yesterday and disclosed that road construction costs have dropped 20 per cent in the last year. The reduction is $9 to $5 per cent from the boom prices of 1929 and early 1930.

The contracts will be awarded within the next week or ten days, it was indicated. The total of the low bids was $1,076,716. By the middle of next month 1,200 men will be employed on the jobs.

The cost of grading has dropped to 60 cents a cubic yard from a peak of 90 cents to $1. Cement is $1.19 a barrel, as contrasted with a former top price of $2.05. Dirt for fills costs 90 cents to $1.15, whereas the price was $1.50 to $1.75 two years ago.

The unions have held up wage rates for paving labor. There was talk of a rate cut when the building trades readjusted their scales several weeks ago, but nothing has been done about it.

OAK PARK COP IS ROBBED.

COUNTY BALKS AT STATE PLAN FOR HANDLING RELIEF

Method of Bill Paying Causes Tangle.

A detailed explanation issued yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission of the procedure to be followed in the disbursement of funds from the current sale of state tax warrants was followed almost immediately by a reversal of action on the part of the county board, which had earlier approved the plan. The desire of the commission, the announcement stated, is to have the public familiarize itself with the method to be adopted, especially since the money came from state tax sources.

County commissioners in their meeting discussed the plan and voted to reconsider their approval of it because of objections raised by some members to possible criticism that might accrue because the county bureau of public welfare would be one of the main channels for administering the fund.

Wants Bills Approved.
Commissioner Peter M. Kelley, who was appointed chairman of a committee to confer further today with the state commission headed by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., argued that either all bills incurred by the county bureau in the relief work should be approved by the county finance committee or the county should be explicitly informed that no responsibility in the matter devolved on the county commissioners.

"Five or ten million dollars looks big in a lump sum," he pointed out.

Among the subscribers yesterday were $50,000 additional from Swift & Co., $25,000 from Libby, McNeill & Libby, $25,000 from the General Exchange and Insurance corporation, $10,000 from Mandel Brothers, $5,000 from the Moody Bible institute, $5,000 from the Dearborn Chemical company, and $2,500 from the Local Loan company.

"but in a thing as big as this it does not last very long. And if it is used up more rapidly than the public thinks it should be we don't want every one demanding to know what the county board has done with the money, just because it was expended through a bureau under our control and for which we are responsible. Either we should approve these bills or we must be freed of ultimate responsibility in the matter."

Explain Handling of Funds.
In explaining the methods to be used in handling the funds, the state commission said that it must act through local relief agencies and that in Cook county it had selected the county bureau of public welfare and the Joint Emergency Relief fund as its agents. This means, the statement said, that these agencies will extend relief to needy families, the expenditures for which will be rigidly controlled by the state commission.

"It should be made clear," the statement says, "that no money actually passes into the hands of the county bureau, or the Joint Emergency fund, or private agencies co-operating under them. Expenditures incurred by their agents must be approved by the state commission and actual disbursement of state funds for relief will be made by checks issued directly by the state treasurer to merchants who furnish the commodities of relief."

"Furthermore, the state commission will supervise the letting of contracts and the making of other agreements for the purchase of relief supplies."

Seek to Speed Sale.
Efforts to wind up the sale of warrants by tomorrow night were determined upon by the sales group under Philip R. Clarke. Subscriptions yesterday totaled $162,900, bringing the sales to $1,284,200 out of the $1,750,000 authorized.

Five of the ten bandits who were captured after a gun battle in their attempted holdup of the gambling house at 742 Barry avenue Saturday night, were identified yesterday as participants in the $11,000 robbery of the American National Bank and Trust company, 6801 West 23d street, Berwyn, on March 1.

Four of the men were pointed out at the detective bureau, and the fifth, Fred Lorimer, who was shot in the groin in Saturday night's battle, was identified at the Bridewell hospital. The four at the bureau were Edward Kerbach, James Mirabelle, Joseph Egan and Tony Digrolamo.

Frank Dsan, 27 years old, another member of the band, is suspected in the last holdup of State Bank of Muncie and in the $150,000 robbery at the Lake Forest home of William H. Mitchell last November.

CITIZENS LAUNCH NATIONAL DRIVE TO END HOARDING

Workers Start Appeals in 1,607 Cities.

The national drive of the Citizens Reconstruction organization to put unemployed money to work was started yesterday. In 1,607 cities and communities representatives of the organization opened the campaign to bring hoarded money out of hiding. In Chicago James Keesley, who is assisting Frank Knox, general director, said that some 52,000 men workers and 70,000 women were making appeals to the public to end hoarding. Mr. Keesley said that reports from the country generally have been satisfactory. He quoted from a number of telegrams received at the general headquarters of the Citizens Reconstruction organization here.

Optimistic News from Bankers.

The president of a bank at Fort Wayne, Ind., telegraphed that deposits were increasing by "leaps and bounds."

"We see signs of recovery," was the message of another bank president in the northwest, who said that all but one of the first five days of March had shown gains in deposits. Walter Ross, in charge of the drive in the Chicago area, told of one woman who yesterday won into a Michigan avenue bank with $45,000 in twenty, fifty, and hundred dollar bills. She bought $30,000 worth of United States treasury certificates.

Mr. Ross said that Chicago banks and workers of the citizens' organization are reporting that a constant increasing number of the old large sized bills are making their appearance. Treasury officials estimate that there are $775,000,000 of these bills still in circulation, and it has been estimated that the total of hoarded cash is about 1 billion 600 million dollars.

Try to Reach All Chicagoans.

Five million slips urging people to put their idle money to use have been distributed throughout the Chicago district. They are being inserted in bills and packages so that they will reach every home and office.

Members of the Chicago organization will make house to house calls during the next ten days to explain the purpose of the campaign. In cases where holders of hidden money are hesitant about depositing it in banks or in purchasing good securities, they will be advised to invest in United States treasury baby bonds. These bonds are to mature in a year and will bear interest at 2 per cent. They are redeemable at par on 60 days' notice. Purchases will be made in banks.

"We are an employment agency for idle dollars," Mr. Knox explained. "We don't mind where they go to work, just so they go to work. If owners of idle, hidden dollars do not want to employ them in normal ways, Uncle Sam will give them a job and pay them wages, too."

Members of the women's division are working under Miss Jessamine G. Hoagland.

Federal Reserve Deposits Gain. Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—Coincident with the inauguration of President Hoover's anti-hoarding campaign, the federal reserve board in its weekly statement today showed the first increase in bank deposits in several months.

INDIA LIFTS BEEF BAN; AUSTRALIA GETS BUSINESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LONDON, March 7.—Due to the joint enterprise of Australian agents and Moslem butchers in India, Australia has suddenly discovered a new market for 50,000 beef carcasses weekly, which will be distributed from Bombay.

The sale of foreign beef had been forbidden previously because the Hindus are forbidden to touch it and Mohammedans have always demanded that the beves should be slaughtered according to religious rites. One hundred Indian slaughtermen have been sent to Sydney and refrigeration equipment has been purchased in London. The Australians hope to extend the business to the neighboring Islamic states.

BRITAIN TESTING PIPE LINE TO RUN OIL UNDER SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LONDON, March 7.—A pilot submarine tube was satisfactorily tested by the British navy at Malta today. The test was aimed at developing a sub-oceanic pipe line to pump oil from the Mediterranean terminus of the Mosul pipe line to Cyprus, Malta and Gibraltar, and perhaps even to Great Britain itself. During the test the pipe, which is made of steel mesh and rubber, was laid around Malta by an admiralty vessel and was used to pump oil into warships anchored off shore.

Ceremony Saturday

Los Angeles, Cal., March 7.—(Special.)—Miss Zoe Akins, widely known playwright, and Capt. Hugo Cecil Levinge Rumbold, artist and brother of Sir Horace Rumbold, British ambassador in Vienna, filed notice of intention to wed here today. The ceremony will be performed Saturday at Pasadena.

Miss Akins gave her age as 40 and Capt. Rumbold declared he is 43. The marriage will be the first for each. The couple met eight years ago in England. Miss Akins is a daughter of Thomas J. Akins, former postmaster at St. Louis, Mo. She first achieved theatrical fame as the author of "The Texas Nightingale," in which Blanche Bates was starred. She wrote other hits that starred Ethel Barrymore.

Capt. Rumbold produced all Sir Thomas Beecham's operas at Covent Garden and Drury Lane, in London, as well as Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree's last play at His Majesty's theater. He staged "Arms and the Man" for George Bernard Shaw.

Girl, 7, Burned to Death Saving 5 Year Old Brother

Goldie Wing, 7 years old, 458 West 45th place, lost her life to save her brother, George, 5 years old, a coroner's jury was told yesterday. The boy was playing too close to a bonfire near his home on Feb. 22, and Goldie ran across the street to push him out of danger. In doing so her dress caught on fire. She died Sunday night at the county hospital. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

BRITAIN REDUCES NAVAL BUDGET TO PRE-WAR LEVEL

Expenses to Be Cut, but Building Will Go On.

LONDON, March 7.—(AP)—Introducing in the house of commons the lowest British naval estimate since 1913, Sir Bolton-Exley-Moncell, first lord of the admiralty, said today that no reductions would be possible in units on far foreign service.

The British Asiatic fleet in Chinese waters is one of the most important of these units. The total navy estimate was placed at $50,476,300 [$178,131,339 at current rate of exchange], a decrease of $11,122,700 [$3,884,311]. In the reorganization of the British naval forces the historic Atlantic fleet will be known as the "home fleet." One battleship, one aircraft carrier, and a flotilla of smaller craft will be added to it from the Mediterranean fleet.

Fleet Expenses to Be Cut.

Sir Bolton said the navy estimates were framed, not on what the navy would like, but with a view to contributing toward the nation's common effort to meet the financial crisis. The new home fleet will have ten capital ships, but three of them and the aircraft carrier will go into reserve. The other seven capital ships and the rest of the smaller craft will carry smaller crews than heretofore. Any loss of strength is more apparent than real, Sir Bolton said.

Fuel and ammunition, cruises and exercises will be curtailed and there will be no combined maneuvers of Building Program to Go On.

"What we want," said Sir Bolton, "is a fleet which will menace no one but destroyers of commerce. It would be a disaster to the world if the British navy could not carry on its function properly."

He said also that there could be no further slowing down of the British building program and that the steady replacement program must be pursued.

The naval authorities have two problems in reorganizing the fleet, he said: "To uphold our prestige in all parts of the world and to maintain in home waters and in the Mediterranean a sufficient force for our strategic requirements and for the training of officers and men."

BUDGET TO PUT SCHOOLS IN HOLE FOR $20,000,000

Fox Explains Estimates of Tax Shortage.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school board with its $90,180,000 budget is headed for a deficit this year of at least $20,000,000, in the opinion of Charles E. Fox, chief appraiser of the assessors.

Mr. Fox is one of the experts called before the school trustees to advise them on their probable revenue. Before he appeared he was commended by some of the trustees as having the ability to give a more accurate estimate of the board's revenue expectancy than any other man in the county. Since he appeared before the trustees there have been various interpretations placed upon what he told them. So Mr. Fox was asked yesterday how he interpreted his own advice.

Expert Explains His Views.

"Real estate has gone down in value," he replied. "There is no question about that. Its ability to pay has been decreased one-third."

"Much has been said about placing personal property on the tax rolls, and every effort should be made to get personal property to bear its share of the tax burden. But there is a limit to the amount of personal property which can be assessed, because of the practical difficulties inherent in that part of the tax system."

"For 1932 Cook county's tax bill, now in collection, will total about $236,000,000. The 1932 tax levy, on which current budgets are being based, cannot reasonably be expected to result in collections of more than $227,000,000. That is the limit which I believe the people will be able to pay. To reach that figure the value of real estate must be decreased and the tax rate must be lowered."

What Board Can Expect.

"On the assumption that the levy for 1932 will be $227,000,000, the school board's gross share would be about $68,106,000. The tax expending bodies will be fortunate if there are not more than 15 per cent delinquencies. The cost of extending the taxes, the collection fees and other expenses, will bring the school board's total down to $56,987,000."

Based on that estimate by Mr. Fox, the school board budget of $90,180,000 will create a deficit of more than $33,000,000 this year.

"I assume that the school board cannot function properly on an estimated $56,987,000, with its accumulated $56,987,000, with its accumulated

STATE SCHOOL FUND ORDER MAY MEAN MORE TEACHER PAY

Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools, yesterday received from the state auditor an order on the county treasurer for $3,754,437, Cook county's share of the state distributive school fund.

Mr. Tobin said that it was his understanding that the law required payment of this fund from the first taxes collected by the county treasurer for the state. On that basis he predicted that the full sum would be available within three weeks, making approximately a month's pay available to Chicago school teachers. The board of education gets about 80 per cent of the county fund.

Tax attorneys said, however, that he was in error as to the method in which the money is paid over by the treasurer. It was their opinion that the payments must be made out of collections on the state levy for school purposes, and not out of the aggregate of all state taxes collected. Since the state school tax levy is roughly 2 per cent of the Cook county tax dollar, the total collections in the county will have to approach $200,000,000 before the full sum called for by Mr. Tobin's warrant is available. Collections to date have been approximately $13,000,000.

Employees in all city offices except the police and fire departments, which were paid last week, got their pay checks yesterday for the first half of January. The pay rolls yesterday aggregated $981,000.

ed debts, interest charges, bond retirements and other debt obligations," went on Mr. Fox. "So it would be impossible to reduce the tax rate for the board."

"If it remains, as at present, then the board can hope to have a gross tax extension for 1932 of $82,000,000. Deducting the delinquency and costs of extension and collection, the net available for the board on the 1932 taxes will be $69,438,000."

Other Governments Must Save.

"That, in my opinion, is the absolute maximum which the board can hope to obtain; and it is $20,000,000 short of the amount which has been appropriated. The board cannot safely anticipate more than $70,000,000 revenue. It cannot get this amount unless other governments make savings which can be applied to the board's expenses, because there must be a reduction in the tax rates which will add the property owners."

"Then the trustees are in error when they quote you as having estimated that they will get $82,000,000 from the tax levy of 1932?" Mr. Fox was asked.

"The board cannot hope to get more than $70,000,000 from taxes," replied Mr. Fox, "and even that estimate may be high. It would be much safer to take a lower estimate. If the board appropriates more than $70,000,000 in taxes, it will—in my opinion—just be accumulating debts."

"We are now attempting to collect the 1930 taxes. If the 1931 taxes are also above the public ability to pay, by the time the 1932 taxes are placed in collection there will be no serious effort to pay. That fact must be recognized sooner or later. It costs thousands of dollars daily to defer recognizing that fact."

BUYING OF FOREST LANDS IS CALLED OFF BY COUNTY

Financial Troubles Cause Board's Action.

The county board yesterday adopted a resolution introduced by Commissioner Walter J. LaBuy discontinuing indefinitely the purchase of forest preserve lands. Plans had been made to spend about $550,000 in such purchases this year, but the commissioners decided that such expenditures would not be advisable in the light of present economic conditions and the heavy tax burden already imposed upon the taxpayers.

The resolution pointed out that there is now due to the forest preserve district $887,000 in uncollected taxes for 1932; $1,248,000 for 1931; and $4,087,000 for 1930, a total of $6,222,000 in uncollected taxes. These arrears have caused the district to default in the payment of salaries due employees and also to default in bond and interest payments totaling more than $1,275,000.

Chairman Maurice P. Kavanagh of the finance committee announced that the board will try to find $125,000 with which to pay the salaries of 841 dismissed employees. The positions were eliminated in the board's "economy" budget and a number of commissioners expressed the belief that the dismissed employees should receive all

ORDERS SUBWAY FOES TO HAVE ARGUMENTS READY ON MARCH 28

Superior Judge Ross C. Hall ordered yesterday that the group of attorneys, headed by Angus Roy Shannon and Eugene H. Dupee, be prepared, on March 28, to start legal arguments against the subway and State street widening ordinances, preparatory to actual condemnation proceedings for the projects.

Another group of attorneys, headed by William B. Hale and Lester L. Falk, was ordered to be ready for its arguments on technical points on April 4. Attorneys Hale and Falk sought a further delay. They stated that Irvin Rooks, chief of counsel for the board of local improvements in the hearings, had agreed last summer that condemnation proceedings were to be delayed until the Supreme court has passed on quo warranto proceedings started to test the validity of the two ordinances.

Attorney Rooks denied that he had been a party to the agreement and Judge Hall ruled that he would not be bound by any agreement made out of court and without his knowledge. The arguments of four other groups of attorneys on legal points involved in the condemnation hearings, preliminary to the actual jury trials of condemnation suits, have already been heard. Judge Hall has expressed his determination to hold court throughout the summer, in order that the condemnation cases may be settled by fall.

pay due them when they are discharged March 10.

County employees have not been paid for the period between Nov. 15, 1931, and the present. The discharged employees will receive the 15 per cent pay-out allotted to all employees, beginning last Dec. 1. No announcement was made as to the possibility of another pay day, soon for the employees retained.

Among the positions eliminated by the board was that of William J. Graham, chief deputy controller for many years. Assistant Controller Michael J. O'Connor computed that the elimination of the 841 pay rollers for the remainder of the year will save $625,000, in addition to the 15 per cent reduction of salaries.

LOOP OBJECTORS WIN 100 MILLION CUT IN TAX VALUE

Jarecki Drops Increases Made by Reviewers.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday ordered reductions totaling $100,000,000 from the tax valuation on fifty-eight parcels of loop property. His ruling sustained the objection of owners of the properties, who asserted that the board of review arbitrarily added the $100,000,000 to the $225,000,000 value.

DRIVES OUT CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM WITH NEW METHOD

Now one of the most frequent painful causes of rheumatism can be fought by a method that actually starts to produce results in thirty minutes. Rheumatic victims have discovered how a new radioactive mineral water called Sleepy Water strikes at the dangerous body acids which doctors now know cause a majority of rheumatism cases.

These acid poisons cannot be reached by cathartics and laxatives. They are actually in the blood stream, and Sleepy Water is practically the only drugless treatment which reaches these acids. It fights them in two ways. First, its mild alkaline tend to neutralize the acid poisons. And second, it cures a soothing, yet powerfully activating influence on the kidneys, helping them to filter out these poisons quickly and more efficiently.

Now Sleepy Water is making an amazingly generous Free Trial Offer, which allows you to demonstrate in thirty minutes how Sleepy Water starts to clear the blood of acid wastes. Get this test today—simply write to Chewulka Mineral Springs Co., Dept. C-10, 2230 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago. If you want, just call Kedzie 1328, and we'll send you this test offer today.

Turn in $448 every Monday at 2:45 p. m.

tion as fixed by the board of assessors. The decision, affecting only the assessments for the years 1928, 1929, and 1930, saves the owners from the payment of $1,500,000 in tax money for each year, a total of $4,500,000. The objectors, including Marshall Field & Co. and the University of Chicago, the largest owners, already have paid the unprotected portion of the bills for the two earlier years, according to their attorneys.

Court Gives Two Reasons.

Judge Jarecki announced two points upon which his ruling was based, saying: "The court sustains objections on the following grounds: one, that the increase was without hearing as prescribed by law; two, that the rules of the state tax commission were not complied with by the board of review in that they assessed the property on the square foot basis instead of the unit foot basis, thereby destroying all uniformity."

Attorney Lester Falk, who represented the largest group of the objectors, and Attorneys Hayden Bell, who represented the county, and Roy Massena, who represented the board of review, ended their legal arguments yesterday morning.

Other Reductions Forecast.

Similar objections against the board of review's increases in the 1929 and 1930 loop land valuations, the attorneys said, probably will be upheld by Judge Jarecki in later hearings. The valuations for both those years are based upon the 1928 quadrantal assessments.

The Most Captivating Performance in Motor Car History

Unless you have driven a new Cadillac or LaSalle, you cannot have any conception of how wonderful motor car performance can be. We make this statement deliberately and with full knowledge of what it implies—for here is, literally, a new kind of motor car transportation. So smooth and quiet are the power plants that they seem charged with electric power. The spring action is under such perfect control that you seem scarcely to be in contact with the roadway. There is no noise at all in any gear. Low is actually just as quiet as high. At the touch of a toe button your Cadillac or LaSalle free-wheels—slipping safely, smoothly, back to conventional gear the instant the button is released. The car accelerates, steers and stops with the most incredible ease. In fact, from every standpoint, it is the most captivating performance since motor car history began. Will you accept a demonstration in proof of this today? Simply telephone —and a car will be placed at your disposal at once.

BATTLE RAGES ON YANGTZE AS JAPS LAND ARMY

15,000 Additional Troops
Sent to the Front.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 7.—Serious fighting has developed between Chinese and Japanese troops at Lotien, near the Yangtze river about thirty miles northwest of Shanghai, according to reports of foreign military observers who visited the front lines today. The observers said the fighting followed the landing of Japanese reinforcements.

An official Japanese military report tonight said that the headquarters of the 11th division had reported a Chinese attack on outposts near the Japanese infantry company at the village of Seking, north of Lotien. Orders were issued to the 11th division to repulse the attack, the report declared, "but not to take a positive offensive."

Report Chinese Movements.
The Japanese communiqué also claimed that Japanese scouting planes near Taitung had observed heavy detachments of Chinese troops advancing to the east. Some of the units, it was said, were moving from Shachien to Taitung, one column was moving toward Yontze and others were marching toward Lotien. The report concluded:

"Japanese forces are on the alert to meet the menace."

An official Chinese report from Nanking tonight said that the Japanese now have 49 warships patrolling the Yangtze river between Shanghai and Nanking day and night to prevent Chinese troops on the northern bank to cross and reinforce the troops opposing the Japanese near Shanghai. The report also said that a Japanese aircraft carrier was anchored at Yanglingkow, on the Yangtze north of Soochow, is daily dispatching bombing planes to drop explosives on villages.

15,000 More Japs Land.

Four more Japanese transports docked at Woosung and Shanghai yesterday afternoon, carrying about 10,000 troops, including cavalry and additional heavy artillery.

Large detachments landed after nightfall and immediately marched to the front. Roads from Woosung and Shanghai leading to the interior are jammed with long lines of Japanese troops. It is estimated that the Japanese landed at least 15,000 troops during the day from eight transports.

The transports also brought a large staff of Japanese railway workers, who were immediately put to work repairing tracks on the Shanghai-Woosung and Shanghai-Nanking lines to facilitate troop movements toward Soochow, which appears to be the next Japanese objective.

Chinese to Continue Strike.

Fifty Chinese mercantile guilds, labor unions and other organizations voted today to continue their strike pending a complete withdrawal of Japanese troops from Shanghai.

Telegrams were also sent to Homanfu [Loyang] demanding that the central government send adequate reinforcements to recover control of Chapei, Woosung and Kiangwan from the Japanese.

Although Gen. Tai Ting-kai, Chinese commander at Shanghai, several days ago advised Chinese merchants here to reopen their shops, only three large Cantonese owned department stores resumed business. Other shops remained shuttered, as they have been since the beginning of the conflict on Jan. 28.

The municipal government of the international settlement is experiencing serious difficulty because of non-payment of taxes.

See Hope for Armistice.
SHANGHAI, March 7.—(AP)—Although both Japanese and Chinese accused each other of resuming the offensive on the battle front west and northwest of Shanghai today, prospects for a formal armistice appeared considerably improved.

The belief that peace prospects had improved was based on Japanese declaration that their troops would be withdrawn from Shanghai as soon as it was certain the Chinese army would not return to the 12½ mile zone around the city.

Indications were that instead of a round table conference of the neutral powers to negotiate the truce, the Chinese and the Japanese would treat directly.

Demands Chinese Assurances.
Japan is willing to withdraw her troops "at the earliest practicable moment," Marmori Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China, declared.

"Obviously Japan is not anxious to maintain a large army in the Shanghai area," he asserted. "Our forces will evacuate the 12½ mile zone as soon as there is positive assurance that the Chinese will not reenter this area and again become a threat to Japanese lives and property within the international settlement."

Although the time and place for another conference between the Japanese and Chinese authorities have not been fixed, the meeting probably will take place in a day or so.

Railway Is Severed.
"The next move is up to the Chinese," he continued. "We are ready to talk peace conditions at any time. First, however, it will be necessary to arrange some kind of truce."

Service over the Shanghai-Hangchow railway was broken off today when the personnel of the Shanghai station suddenly left for Hangchow. Before their departure they removed the telegraph and telephone instruments from the station. Soldiers were reported to have severed the line 35 miles southwest of Shanghai. The meaning of this development was not yet clear.

TOKYO, March 7.—(AP)—The Sino-Japanese conflict produced an ominous economic echo at Nagoya, Japan, today.

The Bank of Japan advanced funds to five banks at Nagoya in an attempt to prevent disaster following suspension of payments last week. The five banks have a total capital of nearly $10,000,000. The largest of them is the Meiji bank, with a capital of about $4,000,000.

The runs also spread to the larger Nagoya bank and the Aichi bank, but these were reported able to weather the storm. The suspended banks dealt largely with the Nagoya district cotton mills, the principal market of which is in China.

Big Powers Put 'Soft Pedal' on Move to Interfere in War

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, March 7.—The big powers today talked prudence to their little brothers in the league of nations assembly, asking to consider the Chinese-Japanese war.

It was Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, who undertook to dampen the ardor of the little powers which, armed with normal force alone, to bring Japan to time, France, Italy, and Germany followed him.

Sir John proposed a platonic resolution, so reasonably worded that Japan could herself sign it, and a postponement of consideration of the Manchurian problem until the investigating commission headed by Lord Lytton reports.

Sir John's Proposal.
Sir John's position is a minimum program of [1] a resolution to Japan reminding her of the covenant and various treaties and restating Secretary of State Stimson's declaration that advantages gained by force cannot be recognized; [2] to take the stand that Shanghai is to be looked after by the big powers, and [3] that the Manchurian problem is to be shelved.

The maximum program on which the little powers are in a high state of excitement. They consider the debates to have shown up the big powers. Sir John, proposing what the more ardent smaller nations are quite sure is a compromise, said:

"It would be far better for the league to proclaim its principles, even though it failed to get them observed, than to forsake those principles by a meaningless compromise."

The league, he assured the assembly, really expressed everybody's aspirations for world peace. "Not one of us would be willing to

MOSLEM PRIESTS JOIN GANDHI'S WAR ON BRITAIN

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DELHI, India, March 7.—Jamlet ul Ulema, an organization embracing the entire Moslem priest-hood of India, today joined Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience movement.

The Ulema executive committee, after a week's deliberation in one of its members assembled from all parts of India, decreed a country-wide picketing of liquor shops.

The purpose is to deprive the government of its liquor revenue in protest against the harsh treatment of Moslem pro-Gandhi "red shirts" in the North West Frontier province. The priests have decided to close all Moslem higher institutions of learning to enable thousands of students to take part in the movement against Great Britain.

The Moslem theologians chose Mufli [head priest] Kifayat Ullah as "dictator." This measure follows the all-India congress party's tactics to take the immediate arrest of a whole body of officers. It places the responsibility on one man and also makes certain his speedy imprisonment. In other words, High Priest Kifayat Ullah is scheduled for an early arrest unless the British government holds its hand.

Before dissolving the committee commissioned forty trusted leaders to proceed at once to Lucknow, Lahore, Allahabad, Agra, and other Moslem centers to organize picketing.

It is estimated that the decision of the priesthood will quickly throw an additional 5,000 to 10,000 Moslem leaders into prison. The present occupation of British prisons by Indian patriots is estimated to be near 25,000. This includes about 8,000 in the North West Frontier province alone, mostly "red shirt" Moslems who have been imprisoned with their leader, Abdul Gaffar Khan.

The Ulema's action greatly strengthens Gandhi's Nationalist party's campaign and is an answer to alleged British machinations directed from high quarters to foment a religious quarrel between the Moslem minority and the Hindu majority in order to obscure the common political aim.

JAPANESE BEAT OFF 200 CHINESE ATTACKING TRAIN

MUKDEN, Manchuria, March 7.—(AP)—A group of 200 Chinese attacked a southbound train on the Mukden-Antung railway near Wu Lungpei station today and were beaten off by Japanese train guards who used a machine gun. One Korean passenger was wounded and three Chinese were killed.

Pu-Yi Leaves for Capital.
TANG KANG TZE, Manchuria, March 8, [Tuesday].—(AP)—Henry Pu-Yi, who is to be inaugurated head of the new Manchurian state tomorrow, left his suite on a special train of the South Manchuria railway today for Changchun, which will be his capital.

Before his departure Mr. Pu-Yi, who as Hsuan Tung once was boy emperor of China, appeared in a cutaway morning suit on the veranda of the inn and gave his first interview since his nomination for the rulership.

"I am proceeding to Changchun owing to pleas for my inauguration," he said.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

REPUBLICAN SUBPREFECTURES.

The meeting of rebellious Republicans from various parts of the country in Chicago to consider defiance of the party management might remind this management, but probably will not, of the various meetings observed by the Whigs in the fifties when the oncoming Republicans were gathering to break away from the shuffling rule of a moribund party which had outlived conviction and excuse for being.

Why should such states as Illinois, New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and even Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan remain as negligible Republican colonies under a management which ignores their wishes and requirements to satisfy Bishop James Cannon Jr., who demands jurisdiction over the private lives of citizens, and of Mr. Borah, who demands their money for the support of the pauper states?

Cannon represents a clerical autocracy in the south which was willing to destroy the Union to preserve black enslavement under state sovereignty and is now willing to destroy state sovereignty to accomplish white enslavement. Borah represents a great waste land subdivided into states which exist by forage in other parts of the land. The senators from the crags, deserts, and swamps invade and live on the country.

The Republican industrial states, without which no Republican candidate can be elected to the presidency, are expected to support the subsidized buffalo gnats, and sheep tick, and political grasshoppers, conforming, at the same time, to the religious dogmas of the very section of the country which, by its social and economic dogmas, made the organization of the Republican party necessary for the preservation of these now exploited states.

Mr. Fess of Ohio in a white cravat and a black hat may attempt to transform this ridiculous situation with some tricks of parlor magic, but the victims are coming out of the hypnotic sleep. The Republican party must offer its essential states something more than a name, a tax bill, and Bishop Cannon's prohibitions.

LOOSE SCREWS IN THE JAPANESE COMMAND.

Japanese authority in Shanghai has informed John Powell, The Tribune correspondent, that he will be denied the military communique because of the character of Tribune news and opinion, chiefly, it would seem, because of comment in Chicago rather than correspondence from China. The loss is nothing. The official announcements of the Japanese are common to anyone who wants them, and being official announcements, they are virtually worthless as sources of information. The little byplay of irritation indicates a state of mind, and that is stupid.

The Japanese military autocracy has made a redoubtable record for blunder ever since Sept. 18, when it started operations in Manchuria. Quite unnecessarily it has destroyed its own reputation for trustworthiness, veracity, and responsibility. Military restraints which could be expected of a competent and disciplined force have been lacking. The semi-guerrilla warfare undertaken by Japanese irregulars, plain clothes volunteers, and gunmen called reservists has been unworthy of a country which pretends to occidental civilization, if there is such a thing. Indignities and affronts to neutrals, particularly to Americans, have not been avoided. The spectacle has been one of unnecessary brutality, government equivocation, bland sarcasms, and not impressive military performance.

Bright men would not have been led into such a state of affairs. There is a hysterical juvenility, an excitable adolescence, in the Japanese maneuvers which should warn other governments finding themselves involved in the reckless acts of the Japanese military. The punishment given the Chinese noncombatants in densely populated civilian quarters would have been regarded by any competent military command and by any sensible diplomacy as the least desirable thing in the world if the ostensible purpose was not to make war but to protect legitimate Japanese interests and the rights of its citizens. Much of the Japanese procedure has been insane.

The Tribune has not regarded Japan as without justification, either in Manchuria or Shanghai. Plenty of contrary opinion can be found in the United States and much of it is very foolish. The Tribune thought Mr. Stimson could easily overdo his case in zeal for the Chinese and the Kellogg treaty. We have not forgotten that both the United States and Great Britain were in trouble in Chinese waters a time back and that their ships were throwing shells to protect nationals, but no such mess was made of it as the Japanese have made of their affair.

The pacifist proposals for an American boycott of Japan have been opposed by The Tribune as madness. At no time, however, has Japan shown any disposition to help out the cause of moderation and reasonable settlement. We do not know what its military government has left undone to justify the rather general belief that a mad dog is loose. Military gentlemen with such ideas in their heads should show a little more rather than a little less competence than that of the German military machine.

UNCLE SAM AS ECONOMIC DICTATOR.

The United States government has announced its intention to borrow $900,000,000 on March 15. Its total borrowings in the first six months of this year are expected to approximate $14 billion dollars.

The United States government is plainly absorbing an overwhelming proportion of the investment resources of the country. The National City bank letter for March notes that "for the year up to Feb. 20 the total volume of stock and bond offerings, exclusive of United States government financing, was only $181,000,000 [of which $100,000,000 represented financing by the city of New York], compared with $782,000,000 in the corresponding period of last year, which total, in turn, was much below those of previous years."

Various causes can be assigned for this phenomenon, but, whatever the cause, the fact is revolutionary. Today in the United States, as in Russia, the government absorbs an overwhelming proportion of the surplus capital of the country. It therefore dominates the economic present and future.

As if the process had not already advanced sufficiently, the Brookharts in congress are asking the government to borrow another $2,000,000,000 or more to build roads which are not needed, and which cannot conceivably yield anything like a return on the investment. These colossal loans are to be repaid, with interest, by the taxpayers, but where the taxpayers are to find the money if private industry and business are to be starved for lack of capital for new projects and for the modernization of old ones is not stated and cannot be stated.

In Russia the government has tried with little success, measured by the achievements of private enterprise, to use its monopoly of the nation's credit for the upbuilding of productive industry. Our government has not done even as well as Russia's. Uncle Sam has used his virtual monopoly of investment credit to maintain an army of bureaucrats and undertake useless and wasteful building projects. For example, the $17,000,000 palace of the department of commerce and Boulder dam.

THE MONON.

The protest of southern chambers of commerce against the allocation of the Monon railroad to the Baltimore and Ohio has the full support of Chicago business interests. The Monon, or, to give it its full name, the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville, is now owned jointly by the Southern and the Louisville and Nashville. If it is transferred to the Baltimore and Ohio the east-west lines will control all the connections from Chicago to the Ohio river crossings.

Today the Monon encourages trade between Chicago and the southeast. If the Monon becomes subject to east-west management the tendency of its owners will be to route as much business on the main lines as possible, to the injury of Chicago's growing trade with the region below the Ohio river. This is precisely the region of the United States which seems destined to enjoy the most rapid growth in the next few decades. It has tremendous natural resources, and the standard of living of its people is rising under the stimulus of industrial expansion.

The interests of the central states and the northwest, as well as those of the south, demand that the interchange of goods from north to south be encouraged. The addition of the Monon will contribute little or nothing to the ability of the east-west lines to serve the nation's commerce, but the loss of the Monon as a link between Chicago and the south may prove extremely costly.

ANOTHER YEAR OF MR. HOOVER.

[New York Daily News.]
One year from today the United States will be inaugurating another President. Who will it be? At this time the odds seem pretty heavy that it won't be Mr. Hoover, though a year is a long time.

Mr. Hoover has three enormous stumbling blocks to climb over if he is to win back to the White House for another term. Here's what we think about those stumbling blocks:

1. The economic block. How much blame for the depression will the voters lay on Mr. Hoover, and how much blame is it fair to lay on him? Throughout the weary months since October, 1929, he has done what he thought best in each phase of the deepening depression. At first he persuaded business leaders to promise not to cut wages or pay rolls. About the same time he advised great public works. Then, vacillating as tax returns fell off, he urged government economy, starting, as usual, with the navy, and letting prohibition escape the ax. Now he is putting in motion several measures aimed at producing mild inflation.

The signing of the Smoot-Hawley-Grundy tariff bill, we believe, the one big, outstanding economic blunder of Mr. Hoover's term. He could have killed that bill. Instead he chose to sign it and thus to hurt our foreign trade and raise tariff walls against us. But that won't be the only economic ailment the voters will have against Mr. Hoover in November.

2. Prohibition. In the Freudian jargon this law may be called the nothing of an inferiority complex into our constitution. People who can't or don't like to drink insist that others shall not drink, either. Mr. Hoover in 1928 bet on the proposition that there are more Americans who can't or don't like to drink than there are Americans who can and do; and won. Maybe he can win again, in the dry, city hating south and west. But in the northern industrial states, where prohibition has given organized crime almost the upper hand, he is most unpopular because of his dryness. And those states are considered pretty vital to any candidate's hopes of election.

3. Pacifism. Since he became President Mr. Hoover has consistently and persistently worked against our national defense forces. He and Secretary of State Stimson have also seen fit to shove the American air deep into the far east whirlpool. As a result of their far east policy [reduce the navy; retain the Philippines; raze Japan] we find ourselves forbidding Japan to consolidate her Manchurian takings, while Great Britain and France refuse to join us in that mustn't touch command, and our army and navy are seriously weakened.

These forces are certain to work strongly against Mr. Hoover's reelection. Of course, the Democrats may split, openly or otherwise, on religious or alcohol issues. Or a dry pacifist Democrat, such as John N. Garner seems to be, though he won't state what he is, may head the Democratic ticket. In such a case we might as well reflect that Mr. Hoover, who must have gained some useful knowledge from his four years' White House experience. But just now, things don't look bright for Mr. Hoover.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE'VE JUST READ of a county in Pennsylvania, another in Kentucky, and one down in Missouri that, owing to a lack of funds, have closed down their poorhouses. That must be an awful blow to the people who love to tell everybody they meet that they're just about ready to go to the poorhouse.

AND WE MUST ADMIT that we ourselves have looked forward with something approaching pleasure to the day when everything else having let us down we could trudge over the hills to the poorhouse. We used to visit our own poorhouse down in Illinois now and then, and everybody out there was happy and well fed, and all they seemed to do was to peel potatoes for dinner or bug the potatoes. Not that we consider peeling potatoes for dinner or bugging the potatoes in the same class with golf or tennis, but, of course, it's all in the way you look at it. We always thought that when we finally landed in the poorhouse we would start an elimination contest in paring potatoes and make a bogey score for potato bugging and put a lot of zest into those heretofore humdrum sports. But now they're closing up the poorhouses! All right, where will we go?

ANYHOW, times have changed. We're going to take our auto and our Sealymur purp, Tommy Atkins, and our radio when we go over the hills to the poorhouse—if the one in our county doesn't do like so many others over the country and close its doors before we get there. We figure that with our auto we'll get the job of going down to the nearest town after the mail and buy the cream and pastry for the institution. While there we can have a few games of pool, drop around to the village speakeasy, and find out at the drug store how hard our pet stock, Aluminum Sponge preferred, has been soaked that day. Then we can go back home and listen to the radio in our apartment at the poorhouse. It will probably turn out to be a pretty nice place. After all, home is where the heart is.

THE EMPTY CRIB.

Last night I lay with dry and staring eyes, And ears that listened for some dreadful sound; And often, yielding to an urge to rise, I leaned above a little bed of white Where some pale finger of the moon's fair light Had found my son's soft hair so golden bright It shed a gentle halo all around.

And thus it is with mothers through this land; They can but rise to burn a vigil light; On weary, willing feet they can but stand, Well knowing there will be no hour of sleep For one small mother, who must strangely keep A fearful watch in grief that lies too deep For tears;—a crib stands empty in the night!

(O Mater Dolorosa, take her hand; You lived, and bore it all; you understood.)

EILEEN DEW.

AND NOW down in Arkansas they're buying their auto licenses on the installment plan. About everything can be bought nowadays on the installment plan except hootch and synthetic gin. There's two things that people are willing to pay for right on the nail.

TWO MORE AMERICANS, one a woman, have been beaten up by the Japanese in Shanghai. Really, Japanese, we warn you, if you keep on like this our Mr. Stimson down in Washington is going to write you a very sharp letter. Oh, very sharp, indeed, and he will tell you that you must desist. We are warning you, Japanese, some day Mr. Stimson is going to get very, very angry at you. Oh, very, very angry, indeed.

"NEW HAMPSHIRE in Spotlight Tuesday."—A. P. That's because both Mr. Roosevelt of Albany and Mr. Smith of Manhattan are contesting there today for the delegates to the Democratic convention. But after that is over the spotlight will be taken off New Hampshire quicker than the farm board can buy fifty million bushels of wheat and you won't hear anything more from that state until the next Democratic primary four years from now.

NEWS from the Far East says the Japs are getting ready to launch an attack on Nanking. However, nothing is said about San Francisco, so it will be quite unnecessary for us to increase the police force there at present.

YES, WE'VE HAD a little cold weather the last day or two. We admit it, as they say in Loz Onglaze. However, smudges, or whatever they chose that charcoal hot box things, were set out near our young fig, orange, and lemon trees and it is not expected they will be injured by the frost. Ah, Chicago, what a climate! What a climate!

L'ESCARAMOUCHE.

He loosed an arrow with the light of his little eyes. But your clear eyes were ready and made of his dart a boomerang.

Unknown, and so triumphant, he stood in the path of his own attack; a common thing the evil do. And it was not so precious, what he slew.

A BILL BEFORE CONGRESS proposes a tax of five dollars on 2.75 beer. Max, our bootlegger, says he has to spend so much money right now for protection and barrels and drivers and everything that a five dollar tax would be rank injustice and he'll be damned if he'll pay it.

THE ANTI-HOARDING COMMITTEE came around yesterday and asked us to get out the money we had been hoarding. We hadn't been hoarding any, but we thanked 'em for the compliment.

CHANCE AND OTHER ELEMENTS.

FOR many be called, but few are chosen." This Biblical quotation has served as a text for a multitude of sermons. It is likely enough to help us in another direction.

Demist who lives in a town where mottoed teeth prevail asks why it is that two-thirds of the children escape and one-third develop this disfiguring discoloration of the teeth. Mottled teeth, by the way, are a disease that contains an excess of fluorine. All of these children drink the water. Two-thirds escape the tooth trouble. His niece and his son are about the same age, eat about the same food, and live the same kind of life. The niece has mottled teeth. The son has not.

This serves to introduce the general subject of why certain people escape diseases that prevail around them. There is no simple answer, though there are many partial ones. About the only answer we can give to the particular question is one that is speculative and far from satisfactory.

The amount of fluorine in this water is small. Were it large the water would be unsafe for everybody. It is too small to affect the teeth of adults, and even too small to affect the teeth of most children. However, it is large enough to register on the teeth of some. The teeth are more susceptible at certain periods—in this instance, about the time they come through the gums. It is possible that at that point in her life this niece got more than the usual dose of this chemical, or maybe some condition of her digestion, or her mouth secretions just at that period was the determining factor.

And now, let us broaden the question. An epidemic of, let us say, flu prevails. Some have it, some escape. Why? Probably immunity is the principal factor in protecting us against attacks of contagious diseases. Some of us are immune because of prior attacks; some because of artificial vaccination going by one name or another. Some are immune because they have lost susceptibility by daily contact with the microbes in small doses, or by minor illnesses of unusual contact with the microbes.

There then is the element of chance. One man escapes infection because a sick man coughed in the other fellow's face. Another man catches it because he sneezed into his handkerchief and then touched his nose.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

SHANGHAI, Sept. 14.—News from Fusan, confirming the statement that practically the whole of southern Korea had risen against the Japanese, reports the wreck of a Japanese force of 2,000 men who attempted to march from Fusan to Seoul. A portion of the force was compelled to return to the treaty port, only 800 arriving there. Two thousand fresh troops have arrived at Fusan to guard the Japanese settlement against a feared attack.

HONGKONG, Sept. 14.—Chinese agents are offering bribes to the soldiers of the British garrison here to induce them to enter the Chinese service. The troops have been warned against listening to the advances of the Chinese.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A dispatch from Seoul, Korea, dated Sept. 10, says the Japanese forces moving under Gen. San have completely routed the Chinese at Sing Chuan. Both sides are reported to have lost heavily. A Hongkong dispatch says the enlistment of Europeans for Chinese service has been stopped.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 15.—A dispatch from Minister Ouma announced that the Japanese government has blockaded with submarine torpedoes the entrances to the gulfs of Tokyo and the harbor of Nagasaki. The United States minister was given a notice on Aug. 17 that the blockade would take effect Aug. 25 and that all vessels would be prohibited from entering or leaving the gulfs or harbor without the conduct of a pilot vessel having on board an officer of the imperial navy. No vessel will be permitted to leave between sunset and sunrise.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 8, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The house of representatives declared itself opposed to interference at this time with the navy department's plan to build a submarine in the submarine controversy with Germany. By a vote of 276 to 142 it tabled the McInerney resolution requiring the president to warn American ships to shun armed merchantmen. In taking this action the house accepted the report of its committee on foreign affairs which expressed confidence that President Wilson will take no step likely to precipitate war with Germany without consulting congress.

LONDON.—The Germans, following their capture of Forges, continue their smashing attacks against Verdun from the northwest between Bethincourt and the Meuse and, according to the French official report, have gained a foothold in the Corbeux wood, which lies to the southeast of the Cote de l'Oie. In their drive the Teutons multiplied their infantry actions and suffered terrible losses in comparison to the value of the ground gained. East of the Meuse they gained a redoubt after a violent artillery fire, only to be ousted immediately by a counter-attack. At the same time the crown prince drove his men forward through the Woivre district southeast of the fortress and after a terrific battle captured Fresnoy.

LONDON.—Winston Spencer Churchill, former first lord of the admiralty, sprang back into the parliamentary arena in a daring speech answering First Lord of the Admiralty Balfour, who presented the naval estimates. Churchill declared the admiralty must be revitalized before it is too late by bringing back Lord Fisher, the former first sea lord, to head the admiralty administration.

INSULT UPON INJURY.

Chicago, March 2.—Yesterday the teachers and other employees of the board of education were graciously rewarded (by mail) with mutilated checks which were to be taken to the City Bank Building, where the holders were "privileged" to exchange them for 1931 tax anticipation warrants. Those who were driven by necessity to accept them proceeded, in spite of the elements, to make a desperate effort at financial relief. Little did they know how desperate!

Once in the human merry-go-round it is impossible to extricate oneself. We were forced to accept sardine packing methods without a semblance of the order and attention accorded the fish. Organization, system, ventilation, and consideration were unheard of accommodations. Dignity and decorum became of necessity forgotten terms. One lone, defenseless human had been provided to hand out the warrants to approximately 1,500 teachers, who had been forced to move inch by inch in serpentine fashion from 3:30 p. m. on. At 9 p. m. there were at least 300 still to be served at the rate of one person every 4½ minutes.

With swollen stomachs, throbbing heads, torn clothing, demoralized spirits, and an excess of emotions, the throng milled on hour after hour. Will not the parents assist in the protest against this treatment of the teachers of their children?

EXHAUSTED WORKER.

WATER.
Springfield, Ill., Feb. 29.—Arthur Sears Henning's article today apparently condemning President Hoover's treasury grab of billions of dollars for the construction of dams and storage reservoirs for water conservation and flood control throughout the country is half right and half wrong.

He is right about the dams; we already have entirely too many dams, but the water conservation and flood control must not be neglected at this time. Take, for instance, the new pump we just installed [the Steagall-Glass rejuvenator] throws over $2,000,000,000 of new or fresh water a year, and besides we may get in more and bigger pumps as we drift along; as you know, such is the history of things. What about the R. F. C. pump with a $2,000,000 capacity, without lubrication, and by proper greasing will produce $20,000,000 worth of water, or something.

I would like to ask Mr. Henning what would he do with this vast amount of water? Let it loose upon the people and swamp them? Why, of course not, dam it.

DIRTY TRAINS.
Chicago, Feb. 29.—On my way down to work this morning I boarded an elevated train at 32d and Racine avenue. The windows were so filthy it was almost impossible to look through them. The woodwork in the car, I am sure, had not been dusted for several days, and the floor of the car had not been swept for some time. I am still expected to pay 10 cents every time I ride, but it seems to me that the public is entitled to at least some consideration when they use elevated trains. They could at least have the appearance of being clean. Why not put a few people to work cleaning the windows in these elevated trains?

CONGRESSIONAL SALARIES.
Davenport, Ia., Feb. 24.—The salaries and allowance for clerk hire of our members of congress are all out of proportion to the average congressman's ability to earn a like income in other lines of endeavor. So much so that on the adjournment of congress the first session after they voted themselves the raise they felt so affluent that the majority scattered to all parts of the globe on pleasure trips. In fact, the press stated at that time that even if the President found it necessary to call a special it could not be done because of his inability to reach his members.

JUDGE DELAYS WIDOW'S STORY IN BANK CASE

Indicates He May Call
Mrs. Lackowski Later.

Mrs. Harriet Lackowski, widow of Frank Lackowski, former president of the Second Northwestern State bank, appeared before Circuit Judge Feinberg yesterday seeking an opportunity to clear the name of her husband, Lackowski committed suicide last Tuesday night after his former secretary, Miss Harriet Shosky, had charged him in court with a frameup against her.

Mrs. Lackowski was accompanied by her attorney, former Senator Charles S. Deneen, who informed Attorney Angus Roy Shannon, counsel for the court, that the widow was waiting and anxious to be called. After a word with Judge Feinberg, Mr. Shannon announced that her appearance at this time was unnecessary, but that she might be summoned later.

Former Cashier Testifies.
Charles A. Elsner, former cashier of the bank, was then sworn and, during an hour's examination by the judge, largely confirmed Lackowski's version of Miss Shosky's affair at the bank, a version which the banker had set forth in his answer to a civil suit, filed by Miss Shosky more than a year ago. Before the hearing closed Miss Shosky was also on the stand.

Examination of Elsner revolved about a $55,700 note, signed by Miss Shosky, her mother, and her aunt, which the secretary gave the bank to cover her losses in stock speculations. Miss Shosky had intimated that Lackowski had involved her in the losses because of her refusal to submit to his advances.

"At the time she gave the bank the note, Lackowski explained what led her to assume so large an obligation," Elsner said. "He said Miss Shosky became involved in a stock transaction with one Gus Engstrom, for whom she purchased $17,000 in stock on a $200 cash payment. Investigation of Engstrom's supposed address only disclosed that a man of that name had died two days after the original order was made. An examination of death certificates failed to verify Miss Shosky's story."

Miss Shosky Cross-Examined.
Repeating her previous story, Miss Shosky was subjected to vigorous cross-examination by the court. She admitted having speculated on her own account, exclusive of the transactions she claimed Lackowski had involved her in, but asserted that in her private speculations Lackowski was fully aware of all loans she made for that purpose.

The court asked her to describe the mysterious Engstrom.
"His appearance was wind-bent, an outdoor man," she said. "He had

DIVIDEND PAYMENTS ON CURTO'S TRUST ENJOINED BY COURT

Circuit Judge Joseph Burke issued an injunction yesterday temporarily restraining the Chicago Title and Trust company from paying any further dividends on a $150,000 irrevocable trust established on June 19, 1929, by Victor J. Curtio, north side realty dealer, for the benefit of his wife, May, and four children. Counsel for the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank is attempting to break the trust and apply the money to the benefit of the bank depositors.

Attorney Elwood Godman, counsel for the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, argued that the trust was created with money belonging to the depositors of the bank, money which, the lawyer said, Curtio borrowed from the bank while he was a director of it. Mr. Godman declared that Curtio, "too cowardly to use his own money, obtained that of bank depositors, securing it with equities of the cats and dogs variety."

Handy hair and a mustache. He came into the bank over a period of several months, stopping at my desk for an okay on checks he wanted cashed. I never saw him talk to any one else, but he always went to the rear after leaving me."

The judge inquired why, if Engstrom was a bank customer, he should need approval of his checks. Miss Shosky said all customers required this approval, whereupon the judge cautioned her to weigh her testimony with care.

Politicians Crowd Chambers.
There was no afternoon session of the court, a bailiff explaining that Judge Feinberg was occupied with other matters. A visit to his court at 2:30 p. m. disclosed the chambers crowded with political workers conferring about the Feinberg candidacy for state's attorney, while several bailiffs were busy in an anteroom, stacking Feinberg campaign literature for distribution.

The literature ran to songs and cartoons. One card, "donated by a friend," showed a mother and three babies standing in a desert flat as two husky movers trundled away the last bit of furniture. The caption said: "Don't cry, children; Judge Michael Feinberg will get our money back; then we can pay for our furniture."

Indict Ex-Cashier After Ringwood Bank Robbery

Walter W. Buck, former cashier of the Ringwood State bank, in Ringwood, McHenry county, was indicted on charges of burglary and embezzlement yesterday by the McHenry county grand jury. The indictments are based on the alleged robbery of the bank on Feb. 20 in which $2,000 was taken. Buck reported that five men seized him as he opened the bank, took the money, and escaped. At the time he estimated the loot at $5,000. Later he announced that only $2,000 was taken and that he had concealed the other $3,000 from the robbers.

COURT APPROVES SUIT ATTACKING INCOME TAX LAW

Harvey Taxpayer Asks to Join in Suit.

Springfield, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—Circuit Judge Fred G. Wolfe of Quincy, sitting in the Sangamon county Circuit court here today, allowed the petition of Attorney Walter Bachrach to file a bill of complaint attacking the constitutionality of the income tax law passed recently by the legislature in special session.

Bachrach, a Chicago lawyer and taxpayer, accompanied his petition, filed a week ago, with his bill of complaint, which seeks an injunction restraining the disbursement of the $5,000 appropriated by the legislature for setting up machinery to collect the tax. Hearings on the bill were set for March 28.

Delay New Petition.
A motion for leave to file an intervening petition on behalf of Michael Cullinan, a taxpayer of Harvey, was continued until Wednesday for arguments on an objection interposed by Attorney Hugh Graham, representing Bachrach. This motion was filed by Attorneys Raymond H. Schultz and Victor J. Voorheis, also of Chicago, and the proposed intervening petition attacks the constitutionality of the income tax law on the same grounds relied upon by Attorney Bachrach.

The objection to the intervening petition, it was explained, was tentative and may not be pressed on Wednesday. Attorney Bachrach desires time to consider the wisdom of permitting intervening petitions or making a single, concerted attack on the income tax law, and wishes to be heard in person on the motion Wednesday.

Calls Act Unconstitutional.
Bachrach's petition alleges that the income tax law violates the revenue provisions of the state constitution in that it levies a graduated tax on in-

NEW YORK WILL OPEN SECOND STRETCH OF ELEVATED HIGHWAY

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—The second section of the West Side Elevated highway, running from Fifty-ninth street to Seventy-second street, will be formally opened on Wednesday by Mayor James J. Walker, Borough President Samuel Levy of Manhattan and 3,000 civic workers.

This section of the highway, which follows the first part, from Canal to Twenty-third street, was erected by the New York Central railroad under the west side agreement. The sum of $5,000,000, which is payable by the railroad to the city because of the difference in values of property transferred between the two under the agreement, is to be applied by the city as payment on the cost of constructing the new highway.

The upper section of the highway provides a new southerly outlet for Riverside drive into Twelfth avenue at Fifty-seventh street.

The only provisions for revenue contained in the constitution, according to the petition, call for levies on property according to valuation.

The law assesses a graduated tax on incomes of individuals, allowing exemptions of $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for a married couple living together, plus $800 for each dependent.

MYSTERY GROWS IN FIRE DEATHS OF TWO WOMEN

Balsam Lake, Wis., March 7.—[Special.]—Authorities here today said they believe a burned automobile, in which the bodies of two women who had been shot to death were found early Sunday, was stolen from a garage in Cambridge, Minn., on Jan. 5. The bodies still are unidentified. One of the women wore shoes that had been purchased in a Duluth, Minn., store. It was at first believed that one of the victims had been beaten to death, but an autopsy today disclosed that both had been shot through the head. Apparently the car was set on fire after acid had been poured on the faces of the women to disfigure them.

Sheriff James Olson was still of the opinion that gangsters, possibly Chicagoans, were the killers. He held to the evidence indicating that the women were the same pair who registered at the Ryan hotel in St. Paul on Friday as Margaret and Marjorie Perrie of Chicago. Imprints of the teeth of both were taken in the hope that dentists' records might furnish a clue to identity.

SILVER COINAGE TIED TO DEBTS BY HOUSE WITNESS

Bimetallism Gets Scant Support at Probe.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—Bimetallism and the free coinage of silver found little support at the opening today of a special house committee's investigation into the causes of and the possible remedy for the prevailing low silver prices. But the revision of war debts and reparations found an advocate in the inquiry's first witness, L. W. Knoke, assistant deputy governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank.

"It is my personal opinion," he told the committee, "that anything short of an international understanding with regard to international debts and reparations will be of little avail."

He gave his reply in answer to a question as to the possible success to be looked for were an international conference to be held concerning the silver situation.

German Born, London Resident.

Answering a further question as to any bias he might have on the debt and reparations question, Mr. Knoke replied that he had been born in Germany, had been in a London bank and had been connected with the Irving Trust company for eleven years prior to joining the New York Federal Reserve bank.

Low silver prices, he believed, were the result and not an important contributory cause of the depression. He pointed out that silver prices might rise 10 cents an ounce and the increased value of the total annual production throughout the world would be only $20,000,000 and of the United States production about $3,000,000.

The chief beneficiary would be Mexico, he explained, with the United States next and Canada, Peru, and a few other countries. Higher silver prices, instead of helping China, might hurt her by driving down her commodity prices.

World Standard Needed.
If European nations which had de-based their silver coinage could be persuaded to return to the old standards of fineness, Mr. Knoke said, the silver situation might be remedied. But he saw no chance of persuading them to assume an added burden of monetary reform, particularly with a view to getting the world's nations back to a more nearly common standard.

Recalled to the debt and reparations question, he declared that one "could not press blood out of a paring." But Germany has had plenty of money for new construction and France and Italy for new armaments, Representative Thurston [Rep., Ia.] reminded him.

James P. Ward, president of the International Acceptance bank of New York, said he was opposed to bimetallism or the free coinage of silver. But he believed that economic recovery cannot be achieved without some sort of monetary reform, particularly with a view to getting the world's nations back to a more nearly common standard.

Toss and turn. Toss and turn. Then just as she was finally falling asleep, a window would rattle. And up she'd jump—terrified for fear it was "burglars."

Nerves on edge day and night—losing weight and strength, too. Desperate then—but read how she writes today: "I was extremely thin and rundown, suffering from constipation and indigestion. My nerves were so shattered that I slept only in 'cat-naps'. Any little noise would get me out of bed to hunt for burglars."

"A friend told me about Ironized Yeast. After three packages I was a new being. I gained 10 pounds in a few weeks, my stomach trouble vanished. My nerves are much steadier now. I sleep much sounder, too."

GALPIN MOVES TO USE AX ON FOES' PARK JOB

Action Directed at Aid of Brundage.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Lincoln park jobs were twisted up with the Republican governorship fight last night. Word spread among the politicians that Homer K. Galpin, who is directing Omer N. Custer's campaign in Cook county, had called William H. Beckman, a lawyer for the park board, and had told him that the ax should be swung on park employees who follow Thomas O. Wallace, committee man of the 44th ward, and a wheelhorse for Edward J. Brundage, candidate for governor.

The idea conveyed was that the heads of the Wallace men should be lopped off forthwith and the jobs turned over to Aid. Oscar F. Nelson of the 48th ward, former floor leader of the city hall machine which was tossed out a year ago and now north side leader in the Harding-Crowe-Emmerson alignment and a supporter of Custer for governor. Mr. Wallace, who is clerk of the Circuit court, was indorsed for renomination on the Harding-Crowe-Nelson "harmony" slate weeks ago before Mr. Brundage entered the governorship contest, but he did not declare for Custer. He is now managing part of the Brundage campaign.

Galpin the Guiding Spirit.

Mr. Galpin, former county chairman, who became a wanderer when Custer was elected, was seen before the grand jury in connection with an inquiry into the sources of the campaign funds in the 1928 primaries, is regarded as the guiding spirit of the Custer Cook county campaign at the Morrison hotel.

Current gossip was that Warren Wright, president of Lincoln park board, was obdurate when approached by emissaries asking that Wallace's jobs be transferred to Nelson and that he told the ambassadors to "jump in the lake." Mr. Wright is now in Florida. Sheldon Clark is acting president and the conjecture was that Mr. Beckman was to carry the news of the proposed removals to him.

"I presume Wallace's men will go," said Mr. Clark last night when informed of the developments. "It seems to be the logical thing in view of Mr. Wallace's affiliations, but as yet I haven't received any word from the governor."

Mr. Wallace said his patronage amounts to eight jobs. Four years ago Mr. Beckman made an unsuccessful attempt to defeat Mr. Wallace for committee man. Commissioner Oscar Reum is expected to fight the patronage switch to a finish.

Wallace announced yesterday that the 42d Ward Republican club has entered the Brundage camp. Richard Prendergast and Wallace F. Kirk, officials of the club, which was the recognized Deneen-Swanson Republican group in the 42d, promised resolutions of adherence to Brundage.

Fight for Committee Jobs. Considerable attention was directed yesterday to the impending battles of Republican candidates for ward committees, congress, legislature, and for delegates to the national convention here in June.

In the background of all the fighting is a struggle over control of the elected party machinery in Cook county, and in most of the wards the Republican factions plan to come to close grips over the committee jobs. The period for withdrawals expires today. In all, 510 Republican candidates filed for the 50 jobs as ward committees. Quite a number may be shaken off by tonight, but the leaders expect a record number will re-

JOLIET FOR REPEAL NEARLY SIX TO ONE, DIGEST POLL SHOWS

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—With the exception of Kansas, returns in the Literary Digest's prohibition poll continued to show a large majority for repeal today. St. Paul, Minn., voted 6 to 1 against continuance of the eighteenth amendment and Tacoma, Wash., about 4 to 1 for repeal.

The ten cities reported showed but 3,900 dry ballots to 15,701 wet. The figures follow:

City	Dry	Wet
Joliet, Ill.	322	1,859
Chattanooga, Tenn.	315	1,823
Baton Rouge, La.	208	870
St. Paul, Minn.	1,083	6,217
Butte, Mont.	109	937
Englewood, N.J.	98	981
St. Louis, Mo.	198	1,054
Marion, O.	692	1,742
Tacoma, Wash.	689	2,139
Cheyenne, Wyo.	98	410

main in the running. The lists as usual are loaded down with phonies to divide the vote, and the similar name dodge is much in evidence.

G. O. P. Factions Meet.

The Deneen group met at the Great Northern hotel, and the Harding-Crowe-Emmerson "harmony" group held forth at the Morrison. The Deneenites, who did not make a committee man slate in advance of the filings, sifted through the names with a view to picking a candidate in each ward for their support. The "harmony" group has a mixed up field. Some of their committeemen, many of whom have landed on pay rolls through the instrumentality of Gov. Emmerson, are divided on the county slate.

Headquarters of Omer N. Custer, Republican candidate for governor, gave out a telegram from Frank O. Lowden, former governor, sent from Chandler, Ariz., where Mr. Lowden is recuperating from an attack of bronchitis. It expressed the hope that Custer would be nominated.

Headquarters of William H. Malone, Republican candidate for governor, gave out a letter in which Elton C. Armitage resigned as president of the 41st ward Republican organization because he "cannot support Mr. Custer." He backed Malone.

Downstate Manager Named.

The Democratic state and county committees announced that Ernest Hoover of Taylorville, former state chairman, has been appointed as downstate campaign manager for Judge Henry Horner and his associates on the slate indorsed by the state committee. At the same time Patrick A. Nash, county chairman, issued the names of a special campaign committee for Judge Horner, the list including nearly every local elected Democratic official. This was by way of answer to reports that some of these officials might not support the organization candidates.

First Wife of Tarkington Sues Her Third Husband

Reno, Nev., March 7.—[Special.]—Peter K. Knoefel of San Francisco was sued for divorce today by Louisa Knoefel, whom he married in Carson City last Oct. 9. She charged extreme cruelty. She was the first wife of Booth Tarkington, the author. Knoefel is her third husband. She asked that her maiden name of Louisa Fletcher Connolly be restored.

TUNNEL IS OWNED BY MRS. ARMOUR, MRS. HARRIMAN

Controlling Interest Told at Council Hearing.

Two wealthy widows, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour of Chicago and Mrs. E. H. Harriman of New York, own between them a controlling interest in the merchandise tunnel system under downtown Chicago streets. It was brought out yesterday at the council committee hearing on the proposed new franchise for the tunnel system.

Mrs. Armour owns 29 per cent and Mrs. Harriman 33 per cent of the stock of the Chicago Tunnel Terminal corporation. This company in turn owns the Chicago Tunnel company, operating the tunnels themselves and the Chicago Warehouse and Terminal company, which operates the warehouse facilities of the system.

Accountant Tells of Deficit.

The information was obtained by Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] at the hearing conducted by the council committee on local transportation and gas, oil, and electricity. Shortly afterward W. M. Hammond, chief accountant for the Illinois commerce commission, testified regarding the earnings of the two operating companies since 1918.

From 1918 to 1931, he said, the tunnel company made net profits, after taxes, but before setting aside compensation due to the city, of $146,356. The warehouse company had a net deficit of $265,386.

C. E. Hochstadler, traffic director of the Association of Commerce, testified that in cases where the tunnel system moves merchandise to or from railroad warehouses, the shipper or receiver does not pay the company direct, but pays the railroad company, which in turn pays the tunnel company.

"Isn't Mrs. Harriman a member of the family which has large railroad holdings," Ald Hodes asked at this point.

S. W. Tracy, president of the tunnel company, replied that he believed the Harriman family owns some Illinois Central stock, but was uncertain regarding other holdings.

City Has $1,860,183 Claims.

In 1929, when its franchise expired, the Chicago Tunnel company owed the city $680,739 in back compensation. Since that date the city has claimed $153,900 in added compensation and $215,357 in interest. This, with a claim of $811,087 against the warehouse company, brings the total claims of the city to $1,860,183. The company has offered to compromise for $700,000.

Panama Guards Against Riots as Presidential Race Opens

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, March 7.—With a conflict between the executive power and the highest electoral body of the land, with the party which ousted the former administration by revolution divided into two sections with its presidential candidate and the electoral machinery in the hands of those who were ousted, a situation is arising in Panama which may call for American intervention should the present state of affairs result in bloodshed.

When the Charistas were in power they enacted a law which empowered the president to call off an election in the event of rioting between rival factions. It is being stated by influential Panamanians that there is something more than a possibility that this may happen between now and June when the elections are to choose their next chief executive. Should this be the case, President Ricardo J. Alfaro may decide to halt the election and assume what would be little less than a dictatorship.

In Difficult Position. Eight years in Washington, Dr. Alfaro knows the situation thoroughly. With his own supporters divided into two camps, one led by Francisco Arias Parades and the other by Dr. Harroldo Arias, he scents the possibility of the opposition romping home a winner and at the same time finds his position a difficult one with his own party split in two.

He has announced again and again that he is neutral and has warned the governors of provinces and mayors of cities and towns that they must take no part in politics at the present time, a situation very difficult for any Latin American and especially so in Panama where there are a few families in the so-called ruling class and practically all of them intermarried.

There have been several disturbances in the interior at election rallies. It is claimed that the police on several occasions have refused to intervene, thus favoring one of the parties. President Alfaro has changed police chiefs and other officials, and by so doing has pleased one section of his party and angered the other.

Palace Heavily Guarded.

The president's palace and the police headquarters are heavily guarded at night, and in the event of a surprise attack, as on Jan. 2, 1931, it is believed that there will be considerably more bloodshed. Observers say that the position of the United States would not be as easy as fourteen months ago, when, mainly through the tact of the American minister, Roy T. Davis, no troops crossed the border line from the Canal Zone, and the Panama minister in Washington, Dr. Alfaro, was called to take office by the Supreme court.

Without an army for a quarter of a century, the present administration is planning the creation of an army of 100 selected men, with duties to protect the government. Such an army would relieve the national police of that duty and enable them to care for the civilian population as in normal times.

One candidate, Francisco Arias Parades, plans to form his followers into bands of 100, on a somewhat similar basis to Fascist.

Meanwhile Rodolfo Chiari, who holds the political party machine in his power and with a majority on the electoral board, is silent. His candidate, Dr. Augusto Boyd, a physician educated in the United States, has a good chance of being elected. What will happen then, with a return to the policies of pre-revolution days and the new younger element, which turned the incumbents out of office by force, deprived of their victory, is in the lap of the gods.

Leech Writes Hopeful Book on Depression

Sees a World Changed
by Electricity.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.
"The Paradox of Plenty," by Harper Leach (Whitney House). Published yesterday.

As I intimated yesterday, in discussing Samuel Crowther's gathering of the views of leading industrialists in the important volume, "A Basis for Stability," the present state of the world is the most vital concern of many more human beings than some of us suspect.
Books about the present
"depression"
it not chronically diseased world are not only written in numerosity, but are bought by the public in quantities which would make a record for novels.

Occasionally a man whose specialty is not economics, through some inner mental light produces a work which is hailed by the economists as a brilliant contribution to modern thought.
Such a book, "The Paradox of Plenty," by Harper Leach, may turn out to be. Mr. Leach is now in the advertising business. He was formerly a financial writer for newspapers. He has always had the kind of mind that thinks for itself and thinks logically and brilliantly.
Though not a professional economist,
Mr. Leach sees life—economic and social life—as a whole, a future as well as a past whole. He has come to some unusual and extremely interesting conclusions in "The Paradox of Plenty." He does not pretend to diagnose the disease which now inflicts the world. He does not offer a dosage to cure it. He merely makes a few plain, simple statements—in language which has enough of the idiom of the common man about it to make it comprehensible to the every day reader.

Sees Revolution in Electricity.

He says that as the whole social and economic life of the civilized world was changed by the discovery of coal—that is, by the discovery of unreleased energy in the earth—so the whole social and economic life of the future will be changed by the utilization of inexhaustible solar energy.
The age of the future will be the age of electricity. The machine age [which resulted from the discovery of buried, usable energy in coal] will progress inevitably, but it is not the fact of the machinery that will change the life of the man of the future; it is changing it for the man of today, but the fact of the inexhaustible electric energy which makes greater machinery possible.

Future World a Simple One.

"It is obvious, then, that the world our descendants will live in will be a much simpler world than has been forecast by those who have been too much impressed with the temporary complications of the present which came on the heels of the steam engine and organized industry.
"We may now dismiss as out of date all pictures of gigantic cities of 50,000,000 population, inhabited by millions living in towered warrens and served by a vast unitary system of automatic machinery. Only in power supply are we approaching any part of that idealization of centralism.
"On the contrary, men will return to the soil and to the biological rhythms which alone can assure the perpetuity of the species."
And he goes on to explain in detail how communism, syndicalism, collectivism, social, and occupational crystallization in any form will be impossible.

The tone of the book is not one of "depression." It is the most hopeful of tenors that infuses it. With energy inexhaustible waiting only to be tapped (regulated, under good) life may well achieve something approaching the utopia of the dreamers of the world (though Mr. Leach makes no romantic story out of his pictured future). The trouble is not that we have not enough for every one; the reader feels when he has finished the extremely interesting volume, but that there is so much more waiting to be taken that the forest is obscured by the trees.

What the great economists will do with "The Paradox of Plenty" remains to be seen. To the average reader it will certainly be a book stimulating to the brain cells.

Paris Pronounces High Waistlines Outstanding Feature of Superchic

Tom Kettering and Jane Love, Actress, to Marry March 21

A theatrical romance will blossom into marriage March 21, uniting the son of a veteran theater operator of Chicago and a musical comedy actress.
The principals in the wedding cast will be Jane Love, appearing in "The Band Wagon," and Tom Kettering, hotel executive. She is the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Samuel J. Ellis of Dixon, Ill. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Kettering. Mr. Ketter-ing Sr. is the operator of the Adelphi theater. The wedding will take place in the apartment of the elder Ketterings at the Belmont hotel, with Judge

The adult education committee of the Chicago Woman's club has urged members of the club to turn current numbers of periodicals, as soon as they have finished them, over to the financial situation, the library has stopped all subscriptions for magazines for current use in its reading rooms.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Ladies seeking a quick route to Paris chic this spring will please step this way and take the waistline road. Higher and tighter waistlines are the outstanding indications of superchic, particularly for dress-up clothes.
I've told you time and again about the high waistline skirts of spring tailored suits, so don't blame me if you overlook them. And now comes the high and wrapped-up line for evening. Madeleine Vionnet, the undisputed queen of evening fashion creation in Paris has introduced this wrap tight waistline, and the distinguished disciples of styles in the French capital have adopted it without a murmur.

One of Vionnet's new frocks for evening having this distinguished detail is shown in our sketch. As you see, this sulphur-green crepe romanee dress has a waistline that is closely fitted and shirred for a matter of six inches above the normal waistline.
Vionnet also makes dresses with this kind of waistline shirred and smocked into tiny folds across the front.

The bodice of this dress is the simple, infinitely graceful Greek bodice that Vionnet loves. The back is quite high. The skirt has a pointed hip yoke, and below this yoke the circular fullness begins, widening until at the hem the skirt is yards and yards around. By some kind of magic the fullness is greater at the front than elsewhere.

Gennaro Papi of Ravina Staff Is Honored by Italy

Gennaro Papi, for a number of years conductor of the Italian repertoire of the Ravina Opera, has been awarded the order of Cavalliere of the Crown of Italy, according to word received yesterday from Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general. Mr.
Papi is spending the winter in Na-

The Early Bird Axiom Applies to Dress Buyer

Smart Clothes Models
First to Go.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If you are really clothes conscious you'll begin your spring shopping immediately, because now, at the beginning of the season, is the time to realize an ambition to have individual clothes, since it isn't any secret that the smartest models are invariably the first to disappear, with a very slim chance that you will be able to find them later. These first crisp things will enable you to have clothes that look like you, clothes that won't be duplicated everywhere, clothes that will manage somehow, not to look like those of the rest of the herd.

Even though you feel that any spring would be a flop without a tailored suit, the chances are that you will weaken in this allegiance after you have seen some of the best looking two piece ensembles that Chicago shops have ever unpacked. They are ready to begin an efficient career in your wardrobe, with innumerable ways and means of changing color schemes as well as costume for you every hour of the day or evening.

A two piece ensemble, of a long plain color coat, simple and smart, with a bit of clever detail as to seaming, is sold with a dress of contrasting color. Without the coat you have another dress or costume, something to be thankful for if you're not a millionaire!

Order May Be Reversed

Contrary minded ensemble-ers will delight in smartly reversing the usual combination of plain coat with printed frocks, using a long, sleekly fitted coat or printed fabric over a plain contrasting-colored dress. . . for instance, a beige and brown print worn over a golden brown flat-topped frock. Or a bright blue and navy print with a monotoned bright blue dress.

A new beige with a decided pinkish cast to it fashions an extremely good moderate frock for a dark brown coat. The dress has short cap sleeves, a shallow cowl-neckline, and by way of being different uses flat bows of the same material for the only decoration down the left side front. These five bows spaced about ten inches apart are similarly spaced and copied, as the only trimming on the coat, and,
of course, are made of the same thin brown wool crepe of the coat.

A long leaved brown wool coat can be worn over a green checked gingham dress, as well as provide summer contrast over orange colored linen and a black and white striped dress.
The dress has short cap sleeves, with a dance frock of almond green chiffon. For sports wear nothing would be more grandstandish . . . a coat of brown worn over a white silk frock of rough weave . . . matching the most sporty shoes of brown and white combinations.

Advantages of Printed Coat.

Think of what you can do with a long coat of black and white printed material either in silk or printed wool.
You simply can't overemphasize black and white. A black silk crepe dress, with rows of fagoting would be perfect under a black and white coat, with the white predominating, especially if used either lipstick red or jade green in judicious quantities with it. The most dramatic contrast would be a gray-white dress made with alternate bands of black.

A most unusual combination is the right shade of purple, prominently dark reddish shade, worn over the correct complimentary shade of red dress.
Later the same purple coat could be worn over lavender linen or cotton.
Another good idea is the same coat worn over a frock of soft dusky pink.
In between the seasons is the time to buy these ensembles, so that you can wear them, as is, under a winter coat and later, as changed, for smart street and sportswear, and even evening wear.

Prepare for Garden Show

Mrs. Ralph E. Milman and Mrs. William E. Casselberry Jr. are watching early blooms in Lake Forest gardens and greenhouses these days with a view to displaying them at the Chicago Flower show to be held from April 2 to 9 at the Navy pier. Mrs. Milman is directing the Lake Forest Garden club exhibit of a garden 24 feet square, and Mrs. Casselberry is in charge of the club's evergreen garden

Movie Actress Proves Beauty Matter of Brains Plus Grooming

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The amount of paper already used exploiting the gifts, the charms, the life history of Gloria Swanson, piled sheet on sheet, surely would reach the topmost pinnacle of the Empire State building. I hereby add part of a newspaper column to the general contributions. After seeing her in her last picture, my personal nomination goes to Miss Swanson as the symbol of lux of our modern beautifying advantages. She represents to me what the great body of our women are struggling for in the way of dress, grooming distinction.
She is the triumph of modern beauty, mind over matter. The self-made success over the nature-endowed. There are scores of prettier women on the screen than Miss Swanson. There are women better proportioned as to feature than she.
There are women whose dress sense is above reproach. But there is something about this Swanson woman that elects her to the head of the class and keeps her there.

I'm speaking of her appearance,

Only 2 Pupils Attend School on Movie Lot

Law Requires Minors to Pursue Studies.

BY GEORGE SHAFER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Hollywood, Cal., March 7.—Arletta Duncan, 17, and Mickey McGuire, 15, are the only two pupils in the "Little Red Schoolhouse" at Universal City, California, state law provides that all minors in motion picture studios must go ahead with school studies the same as youngsters in regular schools, so each studio employs one or more school teachers.

Universal City, which is a regularly organized municipality under the laws of California, but which in reality is a collection of shops, small hotels, eating houses, gas stations, and garages clustered about the Universal studio, has no schoolhouse of its own, only the one inside the studio grounds, which is devoted wholly to picture kids.

Other children from the scattered cottages inside the Universal City limits must go to school in distant school districts.

Miss Duncan and Mickey are both in the cast of "The Informant Kid."

Laura Hope Crews, formerly famous as a dramatic actress, but in recent years voice instructor and histrionic coach for a bevy of younger film actresses now goes on the screen herself as the mother in the film version of "After All." Broadway stage play. Lew Stone plays the father and Margaret Perry, imported from the original New York production, has her same role of the daughter. M. G. M. is making it.

At the same time May Robson, famous in 20 years of dramatic stage his, is playing mother in "Lucky Lymon," being made on the same lot. She's the stern parent of Joan Crawford. The reunion of Marie Dressler, May Robson, and Laura Hope Crews at the same studio furnishes a lot of animated reminiscences when the old belles get together at lunch time. One of their acts recently was to send a remembrance to Frankie Bailey who made legs an American institution with the old Weber & Fields show. Frankie is down on her luck, according to reports.

There is so much realism in motion pictures that the folk who make them often get into trouble. A peanut vendor hired with his wares and wagon to work in "Huddle" with Ramon Novarro sold off his stock during the lunch hour to the extras and the distracted director had to phone a nearby store for more peanuts.

When Rudy Vallee left here for New York a few days ago he made it known he expects to move to Los Angeles, having purchased a $60,000 home and estate for himself and Fay Webb in Santa Monica. The place is less than a mile from the home of Miss Webb's parents, Police Chief C. E. Webb of Santa Monica, for whom Mrs. Vallee became so homesick in New York that she terminated three visits to her spouse with hasty journey back home. Vallee expects to go back to Los Angeles in July with the tour of George White's "Scandals."

"Change," the Siamese elephant picture filmed by the two explorer-adventurers, Merian Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack, cost about $100,000 to make. It has already brought in more than $2,000,000.

Edward Royce, who for years was stage manager for Flo Ziegfeld and Dillingham in New York, has been signed for his first film job by Harold Lloyd. Royce will be dialog director for Lloyd's new and unnamed picture depicting the adventures of a country boy blundering into the movies. Clyde Bruckman, who directed Lloyd's "Welcome Danger" and "Feet First," will direct.

Joe Schenck, United Artists magnate, who bought the film rights to the New York hit, "Whistling in the Dark," has approached Harold Lloyd about making it and if the comedian does it will be his first deviation from the old Lloyd recipe of writing, acting in, and helping direct his own original stories.

You Can't Hide Behind A Mask

Don't try to hide a bad complexion. Clear it if your skin is red, rough or pimply, there is only one way to overcome the annoyance—get rid of the defects. You can do this easily by using Resinol Ointment. Apply lightly. Leave on skin about an hour (longer, if possible), wash off with Resinol Soap.

For trial samples of both, with Resinol Soap, write to Resinol, Dept. 29, Baltimore, Md.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for Calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 50c, and 60c. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

Cleverly Placed Inverted Plaits Give Graceful Flair When in Motion

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The light topped bodice of this pretty dress should be a favorite in printed and plain silk crepe, and the dress, so straight and slim of line, has attractively arranged inverted plaits, giving a graceful flare when the skirt is in motion. Sheer wools, ribbed wool jersey resembling a knitted weave, and rough crepe silk are equally smart.

The pattern, 2677, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 39 inch material with 1½ yards of 36 inch contrasting. Note—Clothing patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(Special.)—Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, will leave Washington tomorrow morning for Detroit where she will make an address before the Republican women of that section. She will return here on Thursday.

Mrs. Walter F. Brown, wife of the postmaster general, was entertained at luncheon at the Washington club today by the wives of members of the "Little Cabinet," composed of the assistants to the heads of the various departments of the federal government.

Miss Alice Lovering, sister of Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, who has been the guest of Secretary and Mrs. Adams for some time, has gone to Philadelphia to visit her sister, Mrs. Henry Brinton Cox.

The Egyptian minister, Sessoris Sedarous, issued invitations today for a reception at the legation Saturday night, March 26, to celebrate the birthday anniversary of King Fuad I. of Egypt.

The Spanish ambassador, Señor Don Juan Francisco de Cardeas, presented his credentials today to President Hoover. He was accompanied by the White House by Mr. Warren Delano Robbins, chief of the protocol division of the state department, and the members of the embassy staff.

When Rudy Vallee left here for New York a few days ago he made it known he expects to move to Los Angeles, having purchased a $60,000 home and estate for himself and Fay Webb in Santa Monica. The place is less than a mile from the home of Miss Webb's parents, Police Chief C. E. Webb of Santa Monica, for whom Mrs. Vallee became so homesick in New York that she terminated three visits to her spouse with hasty journey back home. Vallee expects to go back to Los Angeles in July with the tour of George White's "Scandals."

Good Morning!

Zoe Akins play "The Greeks Had a Word for Them" re: three gorgeously caparisoned and housed young women tramps who subsist on handouts from wealthy men proves a hollow screen farce.

The picture is well costumed, staged, acted, and directed, which is all that can be said in its favor. You ask: isn't that enough? I say: No. When subject matter is cheaply obvious, when lines are trite and vulgar, when characters portrayed are unoriginal as well as undignified—what matter if all of this is handed to you on a silver platter with gold embossings?

Personally I wouldn't go around the corner to see "The Greeks Had a Word for Them" if I were looking for entertainment. But if you have not yet tired of watching gold diggers at work, why the three at the United Artists theater are as enterprising a trio as you're likely to meet.

See you soon.

Family Jewels Going Into Pot to Meet Bills

False Teeth, Spectacles
Also Being Melted.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.
SOME Chicagoans are parting with family heirlooms to meet the monthly rent or pay the family grocer.

The melting pot is boiling harder than ever.
Into it are being poured watches and rings, trinkets and necklaces, gold rimmed spectacles and false teeth—anything that is platinum, gold, or silver or contains any one of these precious metals. They come out plated metals, cynides, nitrates ready to be made into more jewelry and dental inlays that may be turned back into the crucible two or three generations hence.

False teeth, to judge by the quantities in our city's smelters, are one of the most lucrative sources of income. In fact, Walter Ferette, long a cashier in a large refinery, told me the other day that many have crossed off their debts this winter by finding old plates and converting them into cash.

Old Spectacles

Bring Good Sum.

"It is the silver and gold pins, bridges, and inlays that are valuable," he explained. "Old fashioned spectacles also bring quite a good sum with their gold rims and bridges, but these new fangled ones are not worth so much in the melting pot. Many of the other things persons have been giving up the last year, however, are worth a lot more to them, at least in sentiment, than a set of false teeth or a pair of old spectacles."

There was the girl who turned in the other day who turned in the big heavy watch that had gone with him through the battles of Gettysburg and Bull Run. In the case were five ounces of 18 karat gold, and in the chain another three and a half ounces. A tear dropped as he folded five $20 bills in his wallet.

The melting pot is serving individuals—it is also serving organizations interested in relieving the city's poor and unemployed or carrying out a philanthropic program in foreign fields. Members of the Chicago Women's club have been ransacking their jewel boxes and bureau drawers the last several weeks for old pieces that may be melted down to help those in need. Some of the findings have been so valuable and attractive they have been held out for resale. Then there was the melting pot turned in only last week by the Second Presbyterian church down on South Michigan avenue, one of the city's most fashionable congregations 80 odd years ago. This crucible netted the church missionary society $65.55. Now it is reported that gold coat residents will soon be turning their trinkets and old metals into a melting pot at the Fourth Presbyterian church.

Not Much Silver

Going Into Pot.

Less silver is going into the pots than in former years, however. Since the exchange on this metal is the lowest in its history—approximately 30 cents an ounce. Take for example the hostess who contributed a dozen solid silver teaspoons to the collection of the Second Presbyterian church. The dozen brought only $2.30 in return. Much the same condition exists with platinum since it has dropped from a yield of from $100 to $140 an ounce during the war to less than $50 at the present time.

And mention of the war recalls a period when the melting pot was boiling the hardest. Evacuation camps long remember the lines that gathered in Davis square every Saturday afternoon over a period of ten weeks to turn in metals, base and precious. Cashiers with their scales held forth within the iron grating and paid their customers in thrift stamps. A truck load was hauled away each week converting, over the whole period of ten weeks, approximately $10,000 worth of metal into war stamps.

Again there is the memory of the three automobile loads of flat silver that was delivered to a city smelter when the handsome home of the George M. Pullmans on Prairie avenue was broken up. For weeks and months Chicagoans bombarded the refining company in an effort to purchase pieces as mementos. On still another occasion a solid silver fountain, containing at least 1,000 ounces, was taken from an old gold coast mansion to be refined. But even the smelter, the story is told, turned sentimental when the handsome piece approached the melting pot and redeemed it for another who was willing to pay its price in gold.

Head of Women's Bureau to Discuss Pensions

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams
(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

If you wish to be a good bridge player you must get over the desire to take a chance [which generally means in bridge to take a finesse] when it is not necessary and when a failure to make the play will end in disaster. Sometimes I think that the gentler sex, contrary to popular opinion, is the more adventurous. Certain it is that far more often with a female partner than with a male I would have to ask, "Dear lady, why did you take the finesse?" The answer is almost without exception, "O, it looked so very tempting. And if we had made it we should have made an extra trick." But let us glance at yesterday's play-a-problem. Here it is:

♥-K,Q,5,3

WEST
♠-K,2,3
♥-A,7,4,2
♦-K,4,3
♣-8

EAST
♠-7,6
♥-J,10,6
♦-10,9,6,5,2
♣-A,4,3

SOUTH (dealer)
♠-A,Q,J,10,9,4
♥-Q,8,7
♣-K,Q

South dealt and bid a spade. West passed. North took out with two hearts, and East passed. South now bid three spades. The reason for the jump in spades was to assure North that South did not even have normal trump support. North had a right to think after South's three spade bid that South held at least six spades.

Plan Benefit Dance.

The Fae Blake Gordon Aid will hold a meeting today at Mallard's to discuss plans for the organization's annual spring dinner dance to be held on April 17 at the College Inn. The club, which is affiliated with the Council of Jewish Women, maintains a dormitory at the council camp at Wauconda, Ill., during the summer.

Aid Girl Scouts.

A three day book sale for the benefit of Girl Scouting in Chicago will open today at 204 South Wabash avenue.

Holds Beauty Experts Are Aid to Confidence

Doctor Speaks Before Hairdressers.

A characteristic of this age is that persons are made happy by nonessentials, being more pleased by some one who does something to add to their attractiveness than by one who adds to their health. So members of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association were told last night by Dr. John E. Harger, president of the Chicago Medical society, addressing them at the Hotel Sherman.

"On the psychological side you people can do a great deal to instill confidence in persons who have lost their confidence in the business world by growing old in looks," he said.

So far as marcel waves and so-called permanent waves were concerned, they were harmless, for while they marred the hair some, "we can always grow new hair," Dr. Harger explained.

Touching on dandruff, Dr. Harger declared there was no known cure for dandruff, that dandruff could be removed but not cured. "If any of you can find a cure your fortune is made," he said.

"Baldness and turning gray prematurely are to a great extent a family trait," Dr. Harger continued. "In my own family, for instance, we turn gray at forty."

"I think that I wouldn't have this white hair of mine dyed under any circumstances," he said. "Yet if I had to go out and seek a position in the business world, I might change my mind. Remember, however, that some skins are susceptible to hair dyes and will develop dermatitis," he added.

Dr. Harger warned the hairdressers and cosmeticians to be on the lookout for all moles on scalps and other skin growths which, if aggravated, may develop malignant tumor of the worst sort, he said. Cancer of the skin is unnecessary, and may be prevented by proper care and cured by seeking X-ray treatments or surgery from a doctor at the early stage, he said.

Prince Lennart Will Marry Commoner Sweetheart Friday

LONDON, March 7.—(AP)—Prince Lennart of Sweden, who lost his prerogatives of royalty on account of his love for a commoner, will marry the young woman, Miss Karin Nilsson, on Friday, it was learned today.

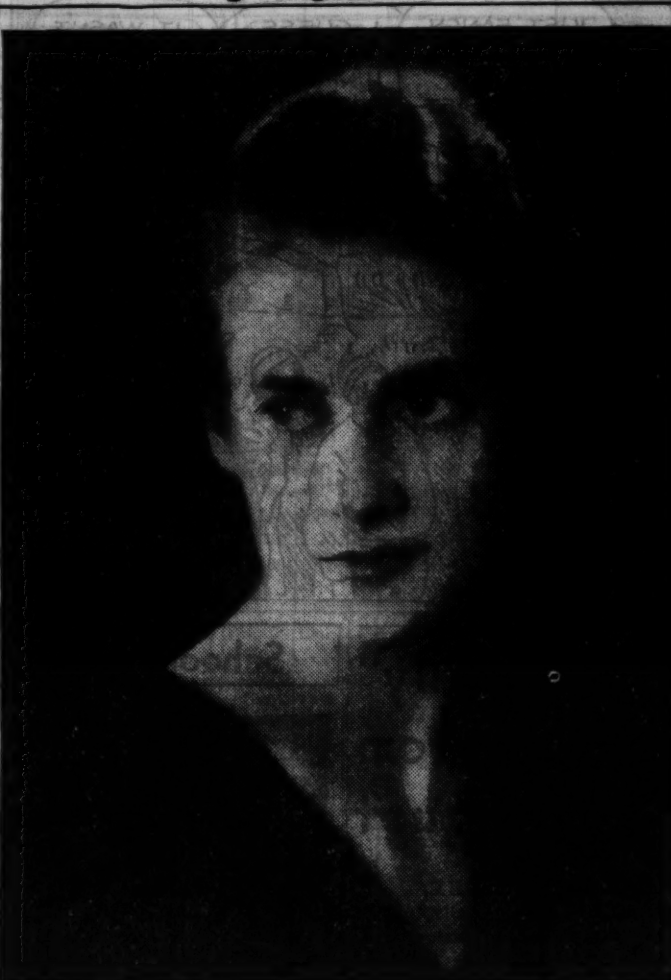

The prince and his fiancée came here more than a week ago for the ceremony, after King Gustav of Sweden had forbidden the marriage in that country. The prince's mother, the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, came over from New York last week to be present.

The marriage will be performed at the Princes row register office, with the mother and a few intimate friends present. After a motor honeymoon on the continent, the couple will settle down on an estate on Lake Constance.

First Performance of Play by Priest to Be Tonight

The first performance of a Lenten drama by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., entitled "Pilate the Governor," will be given this evening at the Loyola community theater, 1230 Loyola avenue. Father Lord, who is editor of the Queen's Work magazine, will attend. Performances will also be given in the Loyola theater tomorrow and Thursday evenings.

Engagement

Miss Ruth Jean Mearns.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth John Mearns of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Jean, to Paul J. Swasea, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Swasea of Evanston, formerly of Kansas City, Mo. The wedding will take place the latter part of May.

Events on the Stage

Adele Astaire left the cast of "The Band Wagon," now at the Illinois theater, last Saturday night. She will go to London to prepare for her marriage to Lord Cavendish, son of the duke and duchess of Devonshire, and thus her Chicago appearances probably marked the end of her brilliant stage career.

Miss Astaire's part in "The Band Wagon" performance is now in the hands of Vera Marsh, who is giving a spirited account of her talent as a dancer and comedienne. She has appeared in a number of Broadway musical shows during the last two years, among them "Good News," "East Wind," "America's Sweetheart," and "Free for All."

The departure of Miss Astaire started a rumor that "The Band Wagon" had left Chicago, and Manager Rollo Timponi, pausing in his ticket collecting duties, denies the same with vigor. "The Band Wagon" will stay at the Illinois until next Saturday night. The title of the next show to arrive there is unknown, at present, to all parties concerned.

The engagement of "The Little Racketeer," a musical comedy with Queenie Smith as star, announced for a premiere at the Apollo theater next Monday night, has been indefinitely postponed. "Everybody's Welcome," also a musical show, announced for the Grand Opera house, opening Easter Sunday, will have its Chicago engagement at the Apollo theater, with Saturday, March 26, as its first night. The management of the Grand, which will lapse into inactivity when "Smiling Faces" departs at the end of the current week, expects to have another attraction for an Easter premiere.

Katharine Cornell will take "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" from Boston to Philadelphia next week. After a fortnight there she will visit Baltimore, Pittsburgh, and Detroit, and then come to Chicago. This schedule places her Chicago premiere in either the last week of April or the first week of May, and thus gives an approximate answer to the many inquiries regarding the date of her arrival here.

Ethel Barrymore will return to the management of Arthur Hopkins next October. She will then appear in a play called "Encore," by Max Wittgenstein and Sheridan Gibney—apparently an adaptation from the German. Her role in this work will be an opera singer of European activities. Miss Barrymore has been under the management of Lee Shubert during the last four years. Her contract with that impresario will expire at the end of her current tour in "The School for Scandal."

THEY'VE NEVER TASTED A TONIC!

These are not patent medicine children. Their appetite needs no coaxing. Their tongues are never coated, cheeks never pale. And their bowels move just like clockwork, because they have never been given a habit-forming laxative.

You can have children like this—and be as healthy yourself—if you follow the advice of a famous family physician. Stimulate the vital organs. The strongest of them need help at times. If they don't get it, they grow sluggish. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is a mild, safe stimulant.

When a youngster doesn't do well at school, it may be the liver that's lazy. Often the bowels hold enough poisonous waste to dull the senses! A spoonful of delicious syrup pepsin once or twice a week will avoid all this. It contains fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin, and does a world of good to any system—young or old. You can always get this fine prescriptive preparation at any drug store. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and protect your family from those bilious days, frequent sick spells and colds. Keep a bottle in the medicine cabinet instead of cathartics that are so often the cause of chronic constipation. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin can always be used to give the bowels a thorough cleansing, with none of that painful griping, or burning feeling afterward. It isn't an expensive preparation.

Expert Gives Short Cuts to Making of Pies

Delicious Cream Crust Varied with Cheese.

BY MARY MEADE.

It has taken the Americans to make pies famous. While Europeans and Asiatics scoff to our faces about pie-making, we discover them painstakingly aping us behind our backs. So, let's bask in the light of our national accomplishment. If some of you aren't as adept in pie making as you might be, don't hesitate to use a few short cuts.

The first short cut that comes to my mind is that of the hot water pie crust, the recipe for which I gave you several weeks ago [and which I trust you have not mislaid]. The second short cut is the substitution of a liquid fat for the shortening given in a recipe, such as a good vegetable oil. Use three tablespoons of oil to each cup of pastry flour and about one-half tablespoon of cold water. Add a pinch of salt to the flour when you sift it, and then stir the oil and water into it, thoroughly combining the ingredients. Toss the pastry onto a dusted board, and roll out your crust. You will find that this lessens the tendency to handle the dough because of the simple method of combining the flour and fat. And, of course, the less the dough is handled the better it will be.

Years ago when cream was plentiful and middle westerners indulged in cows, the women of the house made a delicious cream pie crust. The cream was often substituted for both the lard and water, and again, was substituted just in part. For the latter treatment [and this gives a rich crust for any kind of pie] take one-half cup of fat, one-half cup of cream, and about two and one-half cups of flour, and sufficient ice water to moisten. This should be a rather stiff dough, and only enough water used to permit rolling out.

Though the last two suggestions do not directly come under the head of "short cuts," they offer good variations for your usual pie crust. You may, if you choose, make a pie crust using cottage cheese instead of cream—a good rich cheese mixture—or you may use a grated cheese mixture. Here you will find it wise to add about one-third cup of grated cheese for each cup of flour to the average crust dough, after you have mixed the fat and flour together. Do not add the cheese to a rich mixture, such as was given above, or you will have too rich a pie.

KOTEX reduces prices. Now, women who want the best, the most comfort-giving sanitary protection, can easily afford it. And they are assured of the utmost protection to health... when they choose Kotex.

No question mark hovers over Kotex. No incessant doubt as to how it was made, where, under what conditions, Kotex, you know, is cut, folded, even packed by machine. Made of tested materials. In air-washed rooms. Inspected 76 times during the course of manufacture.

The fact that hospital used 24,000,000 Kotex pads last year is reason enough for selecting Kotex. Kotex stays soft, even after use; it is highly absorbent; shaped skillfully to fit; disposable. When buying it wrapped, make sure you get genuine Kotex.

Genuine Kotex—the best—now costs less

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS

Mrs. Chapelle is the owner of Flaxen's Casino, near the water front of Port Hal, which was established by her first husband of dubious color, who had fathered her daughter Aya, and was the father of her second husband of dubious color, though unimpeachable antecedents, who had brought his little daughter Faire to the island and remained there until his death.

Malise Bookes, aide-camp of Sir Philip Persian, governor and commander in chief of the Tama Islands, and St. Rosario, obtained an invitation for Mrs. Chapelle and her daughter to attend the government house ball. Faire's pride makes her reject the invitation because the Chapelles had until now been left out of the ball list. Mrs. Chapelle and Aya believe it is because she doesn't want to go in their company. Faire admits to herself with misgivings the truth of their accusations. She prefers to remain in the casino, where she and Aya had been trained to work by their mother. She shirks over later to watch the guests of the ball from a sheltered grove in the governor's garden. She sees Mira Worcester, a faded beauty, and young Robert Grand, the governor's secretary and ward, steal away to a secret rendezvous. The governor follows them out and finds Faire. He requests her promise of secrecy regarding the incident. Faire is stung by his formal treatment of her. She overhears him tell Bookes that he is leaving at dawn for St. Rosario, where trouble is brewing. From a high knoll over the deep water Faire waves the governor a mocking farewell, but as she does she slips and falls down the cliff and is rescued from the water by Sir Philip. The governor is anxious to save his young ward from a scandal. Worcester has become suspicious and has threatened Mira. Bookes promises to save the boy by proving it was another girl and not Mira he'd been meeting. Bookes calls on the Chapelles. He threatens to close Flaxen's and have them deported unless Faire consents to clear Mira. Realizing all she stands to lose, Faire accompanies Bookes to keep a rendezvous with Robert Grand.

INSTALLMENT VIII. SAVING HER FAMILY.

"I hate you!"

"Be careful about your hatreds, dear."

Faire and Bookes reached the fringe of tree ferns and balfers around the Worcester bungalow. The servants were away in their own quarters. Mira stood up and looked at the girl hard, coldly and despairingly. For she loved young Grand; and she said to herself: "Of course she'll take him now. I shall have him no more."

Faire Chapelle looked back at the woman for whose salvation she was to ruin herself, and her eyes were fierce.

Mira uttered hurriedly: "This is the Miss Chapelle you told me of?"

"Miss Chapelle. She is perfectly ready to assist us, Mira."

"I expect Miss Chapelle thinks it will be great fun."

"Fun!" said Faire passionately.

Mira moved uneasily. "You mustn't be coerced, of course," she murmured. "I'm sure you're not. I'm sure it's nothing to you. But it's everything to me, and—"

Bookes cut her short. "Where is the cloak, Mira?"

"It's worth anything to me to save her."

Mira lifted it from the long chair. It was a silver striped with black, and it enveloped Faire from head to toe slimly.

"Of course," Mira said in her high, uneasy voice to the girl, "you'll be able to keep the cloak. And it's a lot. It costs sixty pounds. Be very much here. That's your program," Bookes instructed.

"All right, my dear," said nervously. "And do you guarantee that Cecil will—"

"The evening husband will be here all right tonight."

She sank on the lounge and put her head in her hands. Faire was outside with Bookes.

"The rest," he said explicitly, "I leave to you. You know the empty bungalow this side of Sir Philip's orange grove? Mr. Grand will be waiting for you. You know what to say—or not to say. Remember, Lady Mira has never to have word that cloak anywhere else except on these—"

Assignations. Stick to whatever Grand says. And you understand you're committed? Play up."

She hurried, running, round the edge of the crater. "Get it over!" She uttered that aloud to herself. "Get it over!" "It's all in a lifetime." Yes, it was all in the lifetime of a Faire Chapelle, girl of no repute in spite of her pride and her resolution and her reticence. Her quietness had been part of this undoing. She appeared to men to be a secret girl. Yet as she ran on she knew that did not explain Malise Bookes' attitude entirely. He was glad—glad of the bargain which the Governor had sent him to make. He wanted to stage her fall.

A white figure faced her—young Grand. She had seen the fair, charming, impetuous boy before, though he never came to Flaxen's, even furtively. She stopped short.

He seized her hand. "You're Faire Chapelle? Yes, I've seen you, of course. You've come to help us? Bookes said he could put it all right with you. I hope—"

His speech died. In his voice was the same despair that Mira's held. But she was sorry for him, while she had felt only a blaze of anger against the woman. "Do we go into the bungalow?"

"Please. It's comfortable. I—I—keep a shot of whisky—and things—there, since—well, since—I mean—"

"I don't want to hear."

She mounted the veranda steps beside him. They went into the dimly lamplit room. Now the boy looked at her, in spite of his anxiety and unhappiness, sharply and curiously. What manner of girl was this Chapelle daughter? He exclaimed involuntarily: "You know, in that cloak, with your hair, you might have been—her—coming along the side of the lake."

"That's why I was chosen."

"It's very brave of you," said the boy curiously.

She laughed. He thought her laugh the hardest he had ever heard. "O, brave!" she said mockingly. "Why, I assure you no one would consider I stand to lose by it."

"I say! I hope you don't stand to lose. I mean, Lady Mira and I will—anything we can do for you at any time—"

"Don't worry," she laughed. "I lose nothing." And, indeed, she only lost all the treasure of her spirit, and what was that against Flaxen's, and a Leong cloak? "I'm tired," she said. "I've a headache. I'll sit down. Shall I keep the cloak on?"

"I thought—" he sat down beside her on the low divan—"we'd have a drink and a cigarette—"

"Be found smoking and talking?"

"Yes. That'll do; and of course if I may put my arm round you."

"You want to make love to me?"

He thought with relief: "She's hard-boiled all right." He nodded: "Well, it's desperate. The better show we put up—"

"I'm game for anything."

"It's sporting of you. About the cloak, you'll be too hot in it? We'll put it over that chair back. Would you like to swim?" he asked suddenly.

"We do sometimes. That'd be an awfully good thing to do."

"If you think it would be a good thing to do, let me do it," she said.

"I mean—you know—it looks as if you were really used to the place and—and me—and—"

He knew that this girl made a queer incomprehensible little gesture that stopped him. Yet she was smiling. Her eyes were as coldly bright as the moonlit pool. "I'll have a peg if you'll pour me one," she said.

"O, sorry. There." He mixed the drinks with rather shaky hands. "Is that right?"

"Yes. Thank you."

He sat down beside her again, glass in hand. He was not thinking much of her, and she knew it. Leaning forward, elbows on knees, shoulders dejected, he stared into his whisky. "I've got the bungalow lighted tonight to—to sort of—insist that we're here. Usually—other times—"

"You need tell me nothing, Mr. Grand."

"You're very sweet. You understand, don't you? I hope they—Sir Philip—will fix some—something worth your pluck and—"

"I've struck a bargain. Don't you worry about that." She laughed the same laugh that had made the boy uneasy before. "Trust me for that."

"It's worth anything to me. To save her. If you've ever loved any one as I do—"

"He stopped. It was not really fitting to pour confidences into the ears of one of the girls. He supposed—naturally—that, as she said, she had struck a good bargain. All he concentrated on was saving Mira.

Faire knew that this was what the boy felt as she sat there close beside him. Another day—later on—he might remember her and this night; recall some allurement in her; think: "I'll slip down to Flaxen's; why not? Bookes does." But not now. Now he had her no contemplation; no mercy.

She put her glass down. "I'm looking forward to that swim," she rose. "Lord! the lake looks wonderful."

He got up, looking at her. A faint realization of her came into his blue eyes. "Shall I leave you the bungalow to undress in?"

"There are bedrooms—aren't there?"

"Yes. I'll show you."

She shut herself in a small room of desolate looking furniture and undressed in the moonlight. And barefoot, with the black and silver cloak wrapped about her from chin to heel, she walked out.

He was still sitting on the divan.

"I'll swim the other side of the lake," she said. "We'll converse at a distance."

"I'll follow you in."

GASOLINE ALLEY—IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Bashful "Sally" Shies Away from a Big Banquet

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The firm with which "Sally" is employed is having its annual convention out of town this year. Previously when "Sally" received her invitation she sidestepped, fearing to meet people. This year she decides she'd better try to get over her self-consciousness by going forth and mingling with the convention group.

But periodic spells of nervousness overtake her. She gets frightfully fussed about going. Doesn't know if she will say the right thing when she meets the people with whom she has carried on correspondence for years. There is to be a banquet, and "Sally" is at a loss to know what form of dress to wear.

Get your ticket. "Sally," make your reservations, and don't under any circumstances back out of this opportunity to mingle with people. It's the only cure we know for the self-consciousness. Force yourself to get out and around. What the dickens difference does it make if you call Mr. Atterbury Mr. Huckleberry? They'll both survive the faux pas, and so will you. "Sally," what, even, if you step on the toes of some high mogul in the organization? Maybe you'll have attention called to yourself this way.

You may even register with the Big O for future notice. What I'm trying to get across to you is that whatever errors you may be capable of are only serious to yourself. Other people have neither the time nor the pettiness to accept confusion as anything but. As a self-conscious one your trouble is mainly self-centeredness. If you get that, maybe you'll stop picturing yourself as a poor, shy little girl who's never been anywhere.

No one cares what's going on inside of a frightened little you. But you can make folk care by letting them see that something graceful, sure, and charming is there.

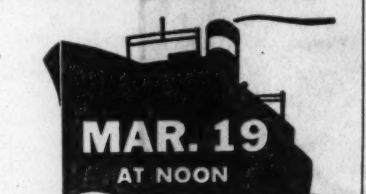

About the banquet, find out by asking boldly whether it is to be formal or informal dress. Convention banquets usually recognize the not too fussy formal attire. A nice afternoon

Colonial Costumes Will Predominate at Army and Navy Ball

Chicago will revert to colonial days for a few hours on the night of April 30 when a colorful army and navy ball is to be given in commemoration of the Washington bicentennial.

Tableaux showing events in the life of Washington will be presented. The dancers at the ball are expected to be attired in colonial costumes. The dance will be the first of a series of events for the occasion. The committee handling the local celebrations is headed by Col. T. A. Siqueland.

American Film Companies to Quit Jugo-Slav Market

PARIS, March 7.—American film companies are preparing to withdraw from Jugo-Slavia because of restrictive measures taken in a new film quota law effective yesterday. It was learned from one American firm's representatives in Paris. The Jugo-Slav quota requires American companies either to produce their films in that country or buy seventy meters of Jugo-Slav sound films for every 1,000 meters they bring in. Beginning in January, 1934, that amount will be increased 150 meters for every 1,000. At the present time the film producing industry in Jugo-Slavia is almost nonexistent and about 170 out of a total of 250 imported films come from the United States.

Champaign Mayor Offers His Job to Woman Substitute

Champaign, Ill., March 7.—(AP)—Miss Marjorie Dickinson was mayor of Champaign for one hour today—and she almost had to keep the job. Women had their hour in both the twin cities of Urbana and Champaign. They directed traffic, answered fire alarms and made arrests. The city council passed resolutions for merger of the two towns into a city to be known as "Arcadia."

Then they gave the jobs back. All except Miss Dickinson. She just walked away and left hers.

"You keep the office; you probably could do better than most of the men in the city government," said Mayor Charles J. Mullikin, who has been a storm center recently in city politics. Miss Dickinson settled it by putting on her hat and walking out of the city hall—and announcing she wouldn't be back.

Make $1 do the work of $3 in checking sore throat colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth washes. Hence it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

THE great economy of Pepsodent Antiseptic is the result of its high germ-killing power. That's where the difference lies between it and old-style antiseptics. When fighting sore throat colds and Bad Breath (Halitosis), remember, there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with 2 parts of water and yet kill germs in less than 10 seconds. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn colds, and throat irritations. When choosing your mouth antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when diluted! Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

JUSTICE HOLMES GROWS YOUNGER ENDING 91ST YEAR

Bi:thday Unimportant; Won't Attend Dinner.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—The eve of Oliver Wendell Holmes' 91st birthday finds him partly even with time for forcing him from the Supreme court bench.

Resigning recently because the work was too much for his strength, he promptly regained some of the physical vitality which kept him delivering opinions after practically all his early contemporaries were living only in memory.

Those who see him frequently say he seems in better health than at any time in the last couple of years. He appears, they assert, capable of going on indefinitely.

The aged New Englander—he was wounded three times during the civil war—will not attend the banquet to-morrow night in his honor. He will listen to speeches about him by radio—probably the first time he has heard a program since March 8 last year when he spoke briefly and his greeting will be to the guests.

Justice Holmes hasn't gone out of his red brick house on I street at night in years and birthdays to him aren't important enough to break any precedents.

A message from President Hoover will be read at the dinner—given under the auspices of the Federal Bar association. Mr. Hoover said when Justice Holmes resigned that he knew of "no American retiring from public service with such a sense of affection and devotion of the whole people."

Holmes was so weak then he had to be helped up the few steps leading to the court. Friends feared he was sinking into the lethargy which precedes death.

Rest Revives Him.

He surprised them, as he had many times before, by brightening immediately. He was a sorely tired man who at last had taken time for a much needed rest.

It was only a week or two before associates who called with grave faces were poked out of their solemnity by typical Holmes jabs of wit and remarks provocative of discussion. He likes friendly arguments with people whose opinion and mind he values.

Justice Brandeis is one of his most frequent callers. Soon the justice began to take advantage of almost every warm day by going out riding in a rented car.

Freedom of separating the meaning of the deluge of court briefs from legal language, he has given more time to reading. He finds Thucydides in the original, is fond of Dante and Rabelais and other classics but takes a mental fling now and then with an hour or two of light fiction.

Dr. O. W. Firkins, Drama Critic and Professor, Dies

Minneapolis, March 7.—(AP)—Dr. Oscar W. Firkins, professor of comparative literature at the University of Minnesota, and known nationally, died today from pneumonia. He was 67 years old. He had been connected with the university since 1891. A critic whose pen often spat fire, his comments on drama and biographical studies were his best known work. At one time he was a dramatic critic in New York. Three sisters survive.

DISPLAY YOUR STORY

where sales news is eagerly sought!

IN GREATER NEW YORK the open door to proven customer response is the Herald Tribune.

Its growth, in the last twelve months, has been over such wide-spread classifications that its buying response is beyond question.

Its appeal is sane, interesting, forceful. Its audience embraces those choice, able-to-buy homes where your product repeats because the family pocket book has an income entrance as well as an outgo exit.

Study the Herald Tribune and you quickly sense why this is so. There is a virility to this great metropolitan paper that instinctively makes it the newspaper for those who live and work and buy well in New York, those normal, substantial family groups that make that city the world's richest market.

Now is the time when a member of the Herald Tribune staff should be permitted to bring these facts to your attention. Let him tell you, for instance, how the Auburn Automobile Company concentrated its advertising in the Herald Tribune and increased sales in the New York market 93.7% last year. A word, by letter or wire, will place these and facts like them on your desk.

Follow These Rules:

1. Each day for 48 consecutive days (except Sunday) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a States Crossword Puzzle. The name of one of the 48 States in the puzzle will be in each puzzle. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the State.
2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to persons who send in the nearest correctly and completely solved puzzle in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 48 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be split among persons whose entries rank highest.
3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except those who are already members of their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each word separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Puzzles," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1839, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 18 days after Puzzle No. 48 has been printed.
5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Postages will count.
6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzle and send them to the Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.
7. The puzzle will be supplied by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

THE NEXT PUZZLE

WILL APPEAR IN TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE

Chicago Architects Are Invited

Six American architects will submit designs for the Chrysler corporation's new building and exhibit at the Century of Progress exposition, first announced in THE TRIBUNE of Feb. 7. Colaborator Root are the only Chicagoans invited to participate. Ellet Saarinen of Minneapolis, Minn., who won second prize in the Tribune Tower architectural competition, will be one of the six. The others will be Gmelin & Walker of New York, Paul Philippe Cret of Philadelphia, Roger Bailey of New York, and Henry Hornbostel of Pittsburgh.

The site for the Chrysler building is a six acre plot at the intersection of Lex Ericson drive and 31st street, between Lake Michigan and the adjoining the Travel and Transport building. It is stated that the building and exhibit will represent an investment of approximately $500,000.

The Chrysler corporation's plans provide that all drawings must be submitted by April 22 and that the award will be announced about April 16. The jury of award will consist of three architects, Raymond Hood and John H. Russell of New York, and Albert Kahn of Detroit, and two officers of the Chrysler corporation. This quartet comprises K. T. Keller, vice president and general manager of the Chrysler corporation, and J. E. Field, treasurer; J. E. Field, president of the Chrysler Sales corporation, and F. M. Zeder, vice president in charge of engineering.

Heads Forman & Co.

Lewis M. Watson was elected president of George M. Forman & Co. yesterday by the new board of directors of the company, which was organized by Dr. Clarence K. Jones and Mr. Watson, all of Chicago; Arthur P. Brown of Lexington, Ky., and Charles S. Blood of St. Louis. Mr. Dr. Jones is president of the company, and Mr. Williamson, treasurer, and F. P. Linneman, secretary.

Cancellation of 218,634 shares of management stock, at the request of the new board, was announced by Albert W. Bartling, who owned it, was a feature of the annual meeting of the Forman company held yesterday at the Midwest Athletic club.

George M. Forman is expected to merge by the former management with the company for a nominal consideration," Mr. Ludwig told the stockholders.

"We never have voted the stock. We are subordinating it all, and all the stock outstanding in the hands of the public. We have no desire to retain it," By stockholders' vote it was returned to the treasury and canceled.

George M. Forman & Co. formerly

Operating Expenses Cut.

Cancellation of leases and other retrenchments have cut operating expense to $2,000 per month, the stockholders were told, as compared to $15,000 a month in 1932 and $7,000 in 1930. A large part of the savings, however, result, if completed, in sufficient income to more than take care of general overhead expense in 1932, obviating liquidating any assets for the benefit of the stockholders.

Loss of Forman company equities in twenty-nine apartment and hotel buildings was prevented by the organizing of the George M. Forman Real Estate Trust, which has been organized. Management of buildings involved in twenty-nine of the issues, all defaulted in as to interest and principal, is now vested in the trust.

"It is obvious that at a foreclosure sale in the present market nothing could be realized for the equity owners," Mr. Watson said. He declared that the only way the Forman Co. could be saved was by liquidation. "It seemed impracticable at the present time and said that the officers felt a policy of orderly liquidation should be observed with the possibility of recovery of some of the assets upon improvement of general conditions."

Homestake Mining Co.

Profits in Sharp '31 Gain

Homestake Mining company's net income for 1931 amounted to $2,436,-899 after taxes, depreciation, depletion, etc., as against $1,492,870 in the preceding year. Net for last year equaled $3.70 a share on 251,114 shares, against $5.94 in 1930.

5 BILLION CUT IN EXPENSES OF PUBLIC URGED

Cost of Government Hits Prosperity.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Governmental expenditures, which include federal, state, and local expenses, must be reduced more than five billion dollars if they are to square with the reduced income of the American people. And there is no use to look for a return to prosperity until a drastic reduction is made in public expenses and taxes. This is the conclusion of a study of current conditions made by the bureau of business conditions of the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

The current money value of the income of the people of the United States in 1931 dropped to the lowest level since 1917, the survey says. "According to a preliminary estimate, the money income amounted to $4 billion dollars in 1931, as against 7.1 billion in 1930, a decrease of 43.8 percent or 23.9 percent. As compared with 1929, the year when the income of the American people reached the record total of $5 billion 200 million dollars, the 1931 income showed a reduction of $1 billion 200 million dollars, or 36.6 percent.

Retards Recovery.

"One of the important factors retarding recovery from the current depression is the high cost of government. Prior to the depression in 1929 the cost of government had already reached an uncomfortably high figure. Since the depression started government expenditures have shown a further increase. Meanwhile the income of the people of the United States has shown a sharp reduction. As a result, the cost of government has now reached very burdensome proportions.

"In order to meet the increase in expenditures the federal, state, and local governments are now engaged in raising taxes which the people must meet out of their reduced incomes. The consequent curtailment in that part of the national income which is available for private enterprise presents a serious obstacle to business recovery.

Cost Increases.

"Prior to the war, in 1912, government expenditures amounted to 6.1 percent of the total income of the American people. After the end of the war, in 1922, this percentage had risen to 11.1 and in 1929 to 12.7 percent. Last year, due to a further rise in expenditures and to a sharp drop in the national income, government expenditures represented 22.2 percent of the total income.

A Huge Advance.

The survey presents figures to show that only a minor part of the increase in government expenditures can be attributed to war. From 1912 to 1922 the income of the American people increased from 33 to more than 60 billion dollars, or about 84 percent, while government expenditures increased from 2 billion to 6 billion 700 million dollars, or more than threefold. But while national income last year fell below that of 1922 government expenditures were nearly twice as large. In 1912 government expenditures took 6.1 percent of income, in 1922 they took 11.1 percent, in 1929 they took 12.7 percent, and in 1931 they took 22.2 percent.

United Milk Products
Plans for Reorganization

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 7.—A plan of reorganization for the United Milk corporation, which would provide for the formation of a new company to acquire the property and assets of the present organization has been approved by the directors. It will be voted on by stockholders. The directors point to lower price levels and the need for revising the valuations of fixed property and revision of capital structure without which it would be necessary to postpone indefinitely the payment of the preferred dividend.

Bond Market Shows Sign of Revival Now

BY SCRUTATOR.

Strength in the bond market during the last week or ten days has resulted in a revival of confidence among investment houses. For the first time in many weeks optimism is being voiced.

Advancing quotations are not the only reasons for this better feeling. A more significant one is the favorable reception that has been accorded new issues during the last few days. P. A. Walters, vice president of Stone & Webster and Blodgett, Inc., says that the $4,000,000 offering of Virginia Electric and Power company 5½s put out last Friday were sold before they were advertised. The syndicate included Chase Harris, Forbes, Hancamerica-Blair and Brown Brothers Harriman.

"We had this proposition in mind for weeks," said Mr. Walters, "but postponed action because the public seemed to be in no mood to absorb new issues. The bond market has been improving and we expected the offering to be well received, but we were surprised at the reception that it got."

Put Up as Security.

Instead of putting out a new series of Virginia Electric and Power company's first and refunding 6s, bonds of the latter issue were put up as security for 5½s, each bond offered being backed by 125 percent principal amount of the first and refunding 6s.

"Recent developments in the bond market are encouraging," says Mr. Walters. "There is a better feeling up and down the street. Nothing extraordinary in the way of an upturn is expected, but the sentiment is better."

"We find that the improvement has been most notable in New England. In the last week the daily bond sales of our Boston office have just about tripled."

Walter Hudson, assistant vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, said that the $7,500,000 issue of Kansas Power and Light company first and refunding 6s recently offered by a syndicate of New York and Chicago houses had all been sold and that the supply had not been sufficient to take care of all demands.

Developments Encouraging.

"Developments during the last few days have been encouraging," said Mr. Hudson yesterday. "Two issues that we bid for today sold on a considerably higher basis than has been the rule in recent weeks."

To make the Kansas Power and Light 6s attractive to the public provision was made whereby the company on the first of each month must purchase or redeem $42,000 principal amount of bonds. At this rate the entire issue would be retired by Feb. 1, 1947, when the bonds mature.

The $25,000,000 Brooklyn Edison company 6s and the like amount of New York Edison company 5s which were successfully floated a few weeks ago yesterday were selling at a premium.

The Duquesne Light company $5,000,000 4½s of 1937 offered last week at 92 were oversubscribed and yesterday were being sold at a premium.

A continuation of the improvement in the bond market would be about the best sign that could be hoped for. The bond market is a far better barometer of business than the stock market.

England Asks Year Longer Truce on Gold

LONDON, March 7.—(P)—The government moved today to extend—probably for a year—the suspension of the gold standard.

A financial emergency enactment bill, providing for the extension, was read for the first time in the house of commons. The original suspension measure, adopted Sept. 21, 1931, will expire March 21.

In addition to giving the treasury power to regulate exchange, the new bill extends the anti-profiteering act, also adopted last September. The government hopes to have the bill approved before Easter.

Sterling Exchange Rises.

New York, March 7.—(P)—London reports that the British government would ask further extension of its gold standard suspension act came as no surprise to leading Wall street bankers, although rumors were current in New York that Great Britain might soon seek to stabilize the pound sterling.

Sterling continued firm in today's exchange market, soaring 1½ cents further to a new high for the year at $3.53½ for cables. The pound was 17½ cents above its 1932 low price of $3.35½, touched two months ago. The final quotation was $3.53.

New York, March 7.—Skepticism and indifference continued to act as a drag on the stock market today.

Prices opened irregular and gradually eased 1 to 3 points below their previous closing levels.

Selling pressure was not particularly pronounced in any one direction. Some of the tobacco and food issues showed a disposition to advance, but their resistance failed to impress other divisions. The sales turnover, however, was 1,600,000 shares, nearly double that of a week ago.

EASTERN RAIL

MERGER PLANS UNDER ATTACK

Senate Group Votes for Full Inquiry.

Washington, D. C., March 7. (AP)—Favorable action on a resolution calling for a department of justice report on whether the eastern railroad trust law consolidation violated the antitrust law was voted today by the senate judiciary committee.

The resolution, by Senator King of Utah, recalled that the chairman of the legislative committee on the interstate commerce commission has charged that "through the formation of holding companies and other devices" corporate railroads have formed combinations recently "without authority of law."

It added that securities in such holding companies and other corporations were sold at inflated prices with "enormous losses" to the purchasers.

Fears Coup by Railways.

The resolution then said the application of four eastern railways pending before the interstate commerce com-tion for permission to make consolidation of the policy. These violations of law render the commission powerless to exercise its independent judgment as to the public interest in the consolidation of roads in such territory."

The attorney general's report would include "what steps, if any, have been taken or are contemplated for the enforcement in these instances of the anti-trust laws."

The commission concerned the application of the interstate commerce commission to group eastern railroad around the New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Chesapeake and Ohio-Van Swearingen system.

Favor Merger Terms.

The Southern Pacific company today notified the interstate commerce commission that it would accept conditionally terms on which the commission approved the acquisition of the St. Louis and New Orleans railway.

The commission in approving the question attached the following conditions:

That the Southern Pacific shall maintain and keep open all routes and connections with existing and future ways until otherwise authorized by the commission.

That the road should agree to acquire the Waco, Beaumont, Trinit and Sabine railway and the Paris and Texas railway, and that it should agree to purchase any addilational minority stock tendered to it for exchange prior to Jan. 1, 1933, of one share of common stock for each share of Pacific stock for three shares of Cotton Belt common stock and three shares of Southern Pacific for five shares of Cotton Belt common stock.

Affects Minority Holdings.

The latter condition placed minority stockholders who had previously refused to sell their stock on the same footing as those who had previously sold. The offer, which was made on Jan. 16, 1931, offered to exchange stock provided it was deposited with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

The only variation from the commission's order in the Southern Pacific acceptance is that it will under no circumstances take the commission's offer in respect to deposit of St. Louis Southern Railway company stock and stock of western stockholders of said company.

COTTONSEED OIL.
NEW YORK, March 7.—(P)—COTTONSEED OIL was barely active today, under liquidation and local selling, promoted by the easiness of commodities, crude oil, and stocks. Sales were 7 contracts, or 1,050 barrels with closing prices 1 to 3 points net lower on active positions. Crude oil was quoted at 3.12½@3.30c, with sales at 3.35c in the southern and 3.30c in the north. May, 2.95 bid in Texas. Bleachable spot, closed at 4.30c; March, 4.35c; May, 4.40c; July, 4.53c; September, 4.62c. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow cottonseed with closing prices as follows: Spot, 4.30c;

March, 4.00; May, 4.20; July, 4.30;
September, 4.40c.

BETHLEHEM STEEL
PAID $397,364
BONUS, IT'S SHOWN

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Bethlehem Steel corporation paid $397,354 in bonuses to officers and heads of departments last year, the pamphlet report for 1931 revealed today. This total was disbursed prior to 1931 when the bonus system was modified after objections to the old plan had been made by a stockholders' group.

The report, signed by Charles M. Schwab, chairman, and Eugene G. Grace, president, said that by distributing available work to its employees the corporation had been able to produce more than its share of the total of the regular pay roll force last year.

Net working capital on Dec. 31 was $116,309,698 compared with $119,421,217 at the end of 1930. Earnings figures for 1931 were the same as announced in the preliminary report issued in January. Net income for 1931 was $115,745, or 12 cents a preferred share, against $23,843,406, or $5.26 a common share in 1930. Not since 1909 had the corporation's net income cover its preferred dividend in full.

The number of stockholders increased to 92,077 from 83,160. Operations averaged at 38.6 per cent of capacity against 61.7 per cent in 1930, when the corporation's production totaled 3,219,994 tons compared with 5,315,642 tons.

Vancouver Shows Increase in Its Export Traffic

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
VANCOUVER, B. C., March 7.—Vancouver occupies the unique position of having suffered less depression than most North American ports. Figures compiled by the harbor board show Vancouver had a gain in exports in 1931 over the preceding year, while imports showed a decrease of 17.9 per cent.

Inaugurating a New Pub- lic Service

Marconi started a new public service when he sent the first trans-Atlantic radio signal in 1901.

The same year saw the incorporation of The Toledo Edison Company—a Cities Service Company subsidiary, now serving electrical energy directly to over 325,000 people.

An investment in Cities Service Company securities is an investment in a nation-wide organization of public utility and other properties. For full details—

PEOPLES GAS, UP 6 POINTS, DAY'S FEATURE

Continued from page 23, column 8.]

An incentive in either direction was not actually lacking. Government financial aid was not expected to be needed, and the bank in line with anticipations of the terms and total offered nothing to exert direct influence on market operations.

Members were inclined to list that program on the constructive side, but took care not to let it—or anything else—persuade them to reach for rocks.

There is a congressional investigation of the exchange coming. While the powers that be now are disposed to pass the buck on the continued fall of the depression palliatives offered by the administration, nobody knows what may happen. The idea is the meantime seem to be to await developments.

Rails Advance Early.

Sharp eyed observers thought they could detect signs again today that the market was a more or less normal affair. An effort was made to make conditions look better by pushing the rails ahead in the earlier deal of the day, but the market proved too expensive and was abandoned. Talk of distribution supposed to be going on behind pool smokers' hands continued to be heard.

Most issues to have out of the 12 point range were preferreds. Rockland preferreds moved ahead more on a 2 points each. International Nickel and Midland Steel did almost as well. On the other hand, the preferreds of American Chain and United Cigar Stores dropped about 3 points each. The preference of New Haven railway advanced 2½ points.

The widest individual swing of the day was that of Central Railroad of New Jersey. That took a plunge of 16 points on a nominal turnover. The stock is closely held and has a reputation for doing things when there's any to get excited about. Auburn was weak, as was Safeway Stores.

Peoples Gas Shares Advance

Public Utilities were inclined harder at first, but American phone took the wrong way out of the rest of the group eventually. In the meantime, Peoples Gas showed its independence, advancing more than 6 points against the rest of its fellows. The big Chicago ribbon favorite has been in disfavor in the Periodic for quite some time and today's spurt seemed considerable surprise and comment.

Steel Closes at 49½.

United States Steel and standard Industrials gave disappointing performances. Steel closed at only nearly 2 points. Allied Chemical, American Can, Consolidated Gas, others of the set were off 1 to 2 points. Among the few that showed consistent strength were Liggett & Mather, United Fruit, and Hostess Milk. The last named registered a net of 4 points.

As to the impending congressional inquiry, there was a disposition in the street today to believe that postponement might be "indefinite" until the inquiry already has achieved its immediate objective, it was possible that the inquiry would be a short and prod the exchange to further restrictions on pool operations.

INSULL STOCK FARING BETT IN MARKET

BY THOMAS FURLONG

With necessary selling boosted in an orderly fashion the stock market gave a good reaction yesterday and several factors recently under pressure were scored moderate price recoveries.

Offerings of Commonwealth were the most notable. The demand came from scattered sources and the price was bid up to 96 and closed with a net gain of 94 points over last week's closing. The volume of trading in stock amounting to nearly 100 shares was one of the largest in the history of the exchange.

Edison was not equalled in gull securities the group was steady to higher. In N. Peoples Gas found willing bidders the price jumped 4 1/2 points.

Heavy trading continued in West Utilities common and was steadier around 2 1/2, up slightly from 2 1/4.

The company notes a strong on the New York exchange to the June maturity moving up to 43. Other series showed 33 and 34 points.

Common maturing in June still reflects the uncertainty felt over the company's financing to the extent of 10 points under present unfavorable conditions.

Good Buying Appearance

The moderate offering in Public Service of Northern was met with good buying prices of all issues were up
